Allies Reoccupy Korean Outposts After Withdrawal

SEOUL, Tuesday, Dec. 30 (AP)—A beefed-up Chinese company numbering possibly 225 troops attacked Allied outposts on the Western Front last night and forced U. N. soldiers to withdraw after one hour of sharp skirmishing.

The Allied troops later reoccupied the positions without opposition, an Eighth Army staff officer said.

The action flared west of Chorwon.

The officer said Allied infantrymen and big guns killed an estimated 30 of the attacking Reds and wounded about 100.

The Chinese also threw small-scale assaults against the Kumhwa Ridge sector of the Central Front during the night.

B-29s Bomb Troop Center

Temperatures dipped to six degrees in the west and a light snow fell during the night.

Heavy clouds cut down air attacks.

Eleven B-29 Superforts from Okinawa last night bombed for the first time a 95-acre Red troop center near the capital city of Pyongyang. The center, at Taegan, contained more than 100 barracks.

The Chinese Reds launched a loudspeaker propaganda barrage Monday urging Allied troops to surrender and enjoy "a big New Year's celebration."

Only a few hours earlier, the Communists had been saying it with bullets instead of words.

They had sent 200 men against Rocky Point on strategic Sniper Ridge of the central sector and were hurled back in a five-hour struggle.

Red Boasts Are Lacking

Then the loudspeakers were trundled up, the same loudspeakers that had been boasting a week ago that the Reds would be in Seoul by Christmas.

An officer at the front said that this time they made no boasts. Instead, the loudspeakers blared invitations in the Korean language to come over and join "relatives and friends."

South Koreans have manned the Central Front lines where the Communists were repulsed, hence the Red broadcasts in the Korean language.

Holiday Deaths Close To Record

[By The Associated Press]

The toll of 740 accident deaths during the nation's long Christmas weekend broke no records, but it came very close.

The 1952 Christmas accident death count was 49 short of 1951's all time high. The portion caused by traffic mishaps, 552, was only three short of the 1936 highway death record.

Traffic safety experts said reaction of the public to the high cost in lives of this Christmas holiday observance might result in a lighter casualty total during the New Year holiday period.

Last weekend's toll included, besides the 552 traffic deaths, 82 fire victims and 106 persons killed in all other types of accidents.

Another 102-hour stretch of holiday fun and festivity begins Wednesday night—New Year's Eve.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, expressed the hope that the long Christmas death list will inspire caution during the New Year holiday.

10 Perish In Crash Of Navy Patrol Plane

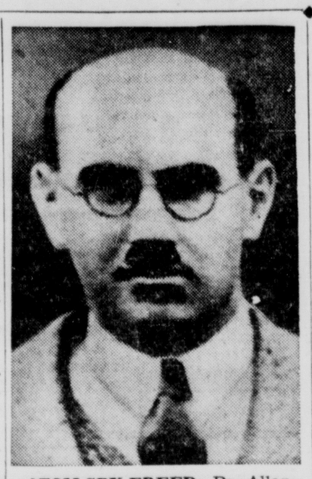
TOKYO, Tuesday, Dec. 30 (AP)—A big flying boat on night patrol crashed Friday night in the sea of Japan and only four of the 14 aboard were rescued, the U. S. Navy announced Monday.

The other 10 members of the crew were listed as dead.

The big four-engine craft, a Navy PBM, hit the sea 50 miles off the east coast of Korea from Kosong, the Navy said.

The U. S. destroyer Renshaw, speeding to the scene, snatched four crewmen from the icy waters two hours after the plane went down.

The four were brought to the U. S. Naval base at Yokosuka near Tokyo. Only two required hospital treatment. The other two were ready to return to duty.



ATOM SPY FREED—Dr. Allan Nunn May (above), British scientist who was convicted as the West's first atom spy, left prison yesterday at Wakefield, England, after serving six years and eight months of a 10-year sentence. (AP Wirephoto)

May, First Atom Spy Convicted In West, Freed

WAKEFIELD, England, Dec. 29 (AP)—Dr. Alan Nunn May, the first atom spy caught by the West, stepped out of prison a free man today.

The brilliant young British scientist had served his time—six years and eight months of a 10-year sentence, with time off for good behavior. Under British law he had paid his debt to society.

But so far as was publicly known May was still a Communist and unrepentant for having given Russia vital samples of uranium used in making the first U. S. atomic bomb. He received $700 and two bottles of whisky. At his trial he had defended his action with the statement he believed Russia should share in atomic knowledge "for the safety of mankind."

Entered Prison In 1946

When prison gates slammed shut on him in 1946 Russia had yet to explode her first atomic charge. When they opened about 1:30 this morning it was into a free world tense with the fear of what Russia would do with the secrets he helped her get.

A U. S. joint congressional committee reported last year that May and three other atom spies—Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, awaiting execution at Sing Sing in New York, and Britain's Dr. Klaus Fuchs, serving a 14-year sentence—had advanced the Soviet atomic energy program by at least 18 months.

Spirited Out Side Door

Thirty newsmen, waiting at the grey prison's main gate, did not get a chance to ask May his reactions today. He was spirited out a side door by a prison official and given a new ration book and a third class train ticket to an unknown destination.

The official British view is that May, having served his sentence, is now entitled to live his life and rejoin society without prejudice.

He has as much freedom to travel in Britain as any tourist. He does not have to report to police regularly. There is nothing in British law to prevent his getting a passport to go abroad if he asks for one.

Churchill Wants Voice

LONDON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Informed sources said today Prime Minister Churchill will urge President-elect Eisenhower in their talks next month to consult fully with Britain before the United States embarks upon any new Far Eastern moves.

Draft-Dodging Conviction Is Basis Of Move

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Atty. Gen. McGranery today ordered Serge M. Rubinstein, Russian-born financier of New York City, taken into custody for deportation.

The attorney general's order affirmed a deportation order issued against the 44-year-old Rubinstein last February, and upheld subsequently by the Board of Immigration Appeals.

The wealthy Rubinstein has been fighting deportation from the United States for nearly 10 years.

The deportation order is based on a 1947 conviction of draft dodging.

Came To U. S. In 1938

Having exhausted his appeals within the Immigration Service and Justice Department, Rubinstein still could take his case into the courts again if he chooses.

Rubinstein came to this country in April, 1938, from Canada on a Portugese passport obtained at Macao, Portugese colony on the southern coast of China. The passport, the Justice Department said, was made out to Manuel Rubinstein de Rovello.

The Immigration Service ordered his deportation in 1943 on charges of obtaining this passport through fraud. This order, however, was reversed by the Board of Immigration Appeals.

Rubinstein was convicted in April, 1947, of evading the World War II draft, and served 2½ years at Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary.

Acquitted In N. Y. Court

After his release from prison, he was tried and acquitted in the New York Federal District Court on charges of violating the Securities and Exchange Act.

The Immigration Service, meanwhile, had started new deportation proceedings resulting finally in last February's final order for his deportation.

Born in Russia, Rubinstein became a Portugese citizen and came to this country in 1938 on a Portugese passport, Presumably, he could be deported to Portugal.

His was a fabulous career in high finance. His methods sometimes were attacked as shady but he seldom failed to show a vast profit.

Eisler To Lose Job With German Reds

BERLIN, Dec. 29 (AP)—Gerhart Eisler is losing his job as propaganda chief of the Communist East German government, the official Communist news agency ADN disclosed today. There were strong indications he is being purged.

The "information office" which Eisler heads will be dissolved Jan. 1 and its functions shifted to the new "press office," ADN announced.

The announcement didn't say who will be given charge of the new press office, but informed East German circles said it might be Eisler's deputy, Albert Norden.

Few saw a bright future for Eisler. The glib propagandist who fled U.S. arrest in 1949 and found a hero's welcome in East Germany, has been falling into obvious disfavor with Communist leaders lately.

Patterson Memorial Award Established

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Secretary of the Army Frank Pace Jr. today announced the establishment of the Robert P. Patterson Memorial Award to be given annually to the outstanding graduate of the infantry officer candidate school at Ft. Benning, Ga.

The award will include a trophy and about $200. It will be presented annually on the birthday, Feb. 12, of former Secretary of War Patterson. He died in an airplane crash early this year.

JP Rules Rancher's Death In Plane Crash Not Suicide

SWEETWATER, Tex., Dec. 29 (AP)—The death of a rich young rancher who told pleading friends he wouldn't land because of "what I did" and then plunged to earth in his light plane was listed officially today as an accident.

Justice of the Peace M. C. Manroe made the ruling in the death of Ollie William Cox, 23.

The youth's father, Ollie Cox, Fort Stockton rancher, said: "The boy didn't intend to kill himself. He was just kidding his friends and lost control of the plane."

"How do we know that the man didn't change his mind 10 seconds before he hit the ground?" Manroe said. "How do we know he didn't black out?"

While friends in the airport control tower at Abilene pleaded with him for three hours yesterday, Cox picked out a gravel pit on a ranch near here as a target. "I'll meet you at the gravel pit," he said.

From 6,800 feet his plane flashed down and missed the gravel pit. He died when his plane slammed against a creek bank and bounced 200 yards onto level, mesquite-studded ground.

Eisenhower, GOP Senators Confer Today

Controls' Fate May Hinge On Meeting

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—The fate of wage and price controls may hinge on talks tomorrow between President-elect Eisenhower and Republican Senate leaders.

Controls are due to expire April 30. Eisenhower can seek to have them extended or to let them die. He hasn't tipped his hand yet, although he said in his campaign he favors junking them as soon as feasible.

An informed source said the general has asked a group of advisers to study the whole matter and give him the benefit of their views. This source, declining use of his name, added the group still is up in the air without even a preliminary recommendation.

Sen. Taft To Be Present

Eisenhower talked over his legislative program with GOP House leaders last Dec. 18. He does the same thing at tomorrow's luncheon with Republican Senate leaders, including Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Taft said today he expects price-wage controls to be discussed, although he added:

"The general will bring up the subjects he will discuss."

Another topic presumably on the agenda with the men who will help guide the Eisenhower program through the Senate is last week's announcement by Premier Stalin that he is favorably disposed to confer with Eisenhower.

May Touch On Civil Rights

Although not on the agenda, the senators may seek Eisenhower's views on the touchy questions of civil rights and filibusters.

Eisenhower was quoted last Nov. 28 as saying he would make known to the new Senate "that he wants filibustering stopped."

The report came from Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He said Eisenhower also told him discrimination and segregation should be ended.

Taft will be meeting with the President-elect for the first time since the Ohio senator labeled "incredible" Eisenhower's selection of Martin Durkin of the AFL, as his new secretary of labor.

Taft is slated to be majority leader of the new Republican-controlled Senate.

T-H Injunction Clause Upheld

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—The injunction provision of the controversial Taft-Hartley Act met its first head-on court test today and a federal judge declared the clause constitutional.

District Judge John Knight granted the government an 80-day injunction restraining the CIO United Steelworkers union from continuing a strike at the American Locomotive Company plant at Dunkirk.

"The strike, in effect, is a strike against the government," Knight said. He held that his court had jurisdiction for that reason.

"It seems unthinkable that a strike in a plant producing for the government items now vitally necessary to the defense of this country and the security of its people should be permitted to continue," Knight said.

The approximately 1,500 workers at Dunkirk make nickel-plated pipe that the Atomic Energy Commission says is vital to its program.

Knight said that "delay in the construction of these materials, caused by the Dunkirk strike, will mean a loss in the production of atomic weapons."

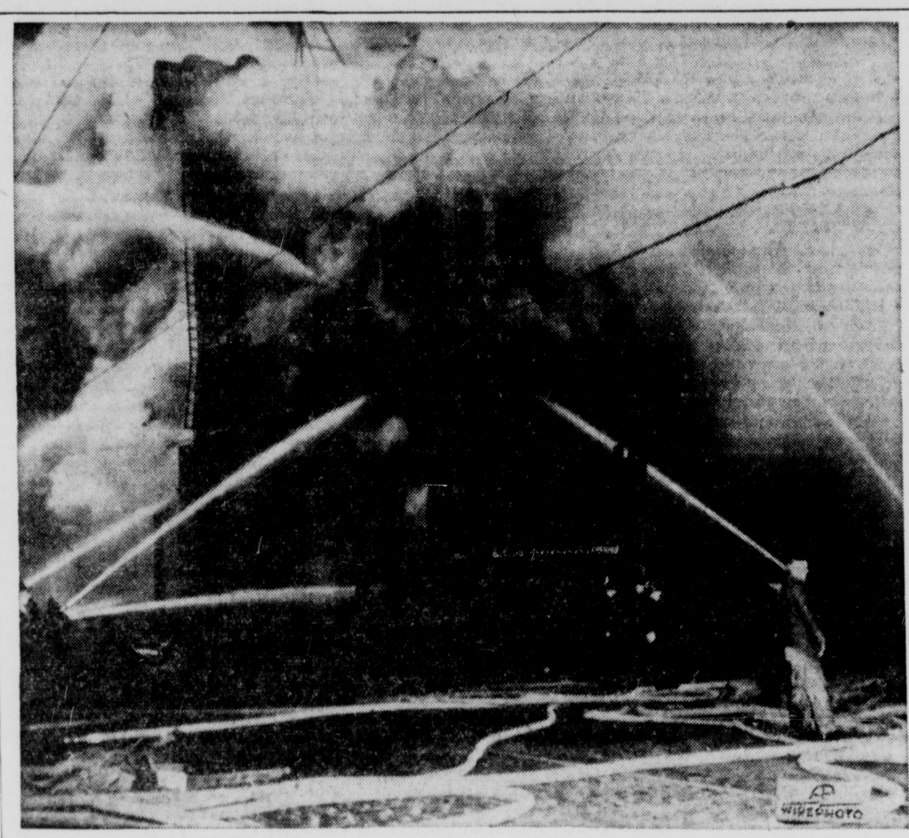
He added: "While technically not at war, existing conditions in Korea are tantamount to war."

Joseph P. Molony, USW state director, said the union would seek a Supreme Court review of the decision.

Ex-Art Model Plans To Become Bullfighter

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 29 (AP)—Marie Tamara Louwe, 24, South African former art model, arrived today from Johannesburg with the announcement she plans to become a bullfighter.

She has already received her first lesson in fighting bulls from Portuguese Toreador Feliciano Antonio at Lourenco Marques in Mozambique, Portugal's East African colony. Marie wants to be fully trained before appearing in the bullrings of Portugal and Mexico.



Six Feared Dead In Chicago Fire

Firemen fight through smoke and flames to get under control this blaze that started with an explosion in the four-story General Furniture Co. on Chicago's southwest side yesterday. Six persons were believed to have been trapped. Late last night, three bodies had been taken from the wreckage.

Nation Must Meet Air Power Goals, Vandenberg Says

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, said today Soviet Russia has produced five times as many planes as the United States during the last five years.

Declaring that any cutback in U. S. plane production could be "catastrophic," Vandenberg said:

"Even today the Russians are equalling our output, or perhaps bettering it."

U. S. "Holiday" Deplored

The U. S. Air Force chief said that with the atomic bomb now in the possession of the Soviet Union, "we are entering a period of increased tension and, in some parts of the world, of acute crisis."

Deploring what he called the American "holiday" in plane production during the postwar years, prior to the outbreak of the Korean War in mid-1950, Vandenberg said:

"We must meet our air power goals if we are to have the strength to counter the threat against our national security and the peace of the world.

Half Of Planes Obsolescent

Vandenberg's call for full speed ahead in aircraft production came in the face of growing reports that the incoming Republican administration and the new GOP-controlled 83rd Congress may seek to trim military spending in the drive to cut over-all federal expenditures.

Vandenberg said that in the 29 months since the United States began its air buildup, the program to create a 143-wing Air Force has attained only the halfway mark.

More than half the Air Force's planes, he said, are obsolescent.

Vandenberg said that during the current buildup, the aircraft industry has delivered some 15,000 planes of all types to the armed services. He said this was "a commendable record, attained under trying semi-mobilization conditions which frequently hampered production."

Marines Present Six Medals To McCarthy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Marine Corps today presented six medals to Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) for gallant and meritorious service as a Marine air combat intelligence officer in the Pacific in World War II.

The presentation was made in the senator's office by Col. John R. Lanigan, commanding officer of the Fifth Reserve Marine District.

McCarthy was given the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal and four stars in lieu of additional air medals.

He told Lanigan that "I have never received and never expect to receive anything I will value more highly."

N.Y. Film Critics Select 'High Noon' As Movie Of Year

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—New York film critics today selected "High Noon" as the best film of 1952 and its director, Fred Zinnemann, for the best direction of the year.

The movie starred Gary Cooper and was produced by Stanley Kramer.

Chosen as the best actor of 1952 was Sir Ralph Richardson for his performance in a British film, "Breaking Through the Sound Barrier."

Shirley Booth won the best actress award for her performance in "Come Back Little Sheba."

Six Feared Dead In Blast And Fire

CHICAGO, Dec 29 (AP)—Three bodies were taken from a furniture store and warehouse which was shattered and charred by a spectacular blast and fire late today.

Fire Marshall Michael J. Corrigan said six persons were believed to have been trapped in the four-story building of the General Furniture Company on the southwest side.

He said he believed there were four employes and two customers caught by the explosion.

The explosion, and blaze that followed sent pedestrians and vehicles at the scene scurrying.

Arnold Leon, president of a furniture company across the street, said he heard a "whoosh," and then the fire burst forth.

"I don't see how anyone could have gotten out alive," he said. "There are at least 12 people who work in the store, and there were customers in there too. I thought it was an atom bomb, it was such a violent explosion. Cars parked in the street outside were catching fire."

Sen. McCarran Denies Trying To Ruin Paper

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev) denied today he conspired to destroy the business of the Las Vegas Sun, a newspaper which criticized him editorially.

McCarran, testifying under oath, said he bore no ill-feeling toward the Sun's publisher, Hank M. Greenspun.

The Navada senator, whose usual role is asking questions, not answering them, was questioned for about six hours during a pre-trial hearing in connection with Greenspun's million-dollar damage suit. McCarran's chairman of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee which has quizzed hundreds of witnesses.

The senator is among some 40 defendants accused by Greenspun of conspiring to put the Sun out of business by withdrawing advertising and other support. Most of the other defendants are connected with Las Vegas hotels and gambling clubs. Gambling is legal in Nevada.

Under questioning of his own attorney, William E. Leahy, McCarran denied, point by point, Greenspun's allegations that he took the lead in forming a conspiracy to destroy the Sun's business.

Under questioning by William A Roberts, Greenspun's Washington attorney, McCarran testified that food and lodging usually was on the house when he visited Las Vegas hotels.

Roberts wanted to know whether McCarran ever gave Las Vegas hotels "chits" to get cash for miscellaneous expenses while visiting Las Vegas.

"No, sir," he answered.

Bertha Adkins Will Call On Eisenhower

Mundt Would Probe Charge Czechs Run Atom Spy Ring

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said today he will urge further Senate investigation of sworn charges that a spy group, based near the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic weapons installation, was operated "by the Czechoslovakian government through the United Nations staff."

The accusation was made by Harvey Matusow of Dayton, Ohio, a self-styled former Communist and one-time informer for the FBI.

Matusow told the story under oath at a public hearing before the Senate internal security subcommittee at Salt Lake City, Utah, last Oct. 8.

He said a man named George Stary, whom he described as "the delegate at that time to the Human Rights Conference of the U. N.," had urged him in the fall of 1950 to ferret out "any atomic secrets that could be obtained in and around Sandia base in Albuquerque and Los Alamos."

Matusow testified that at the time he was regularly quartered at the San Cristobal Valley Ranch, near Taos, N. M., about 80 miles northeast of Los Alamos, and that the place "catered primarily to members of the Communist Party." Among others there, he said, was a Czechoslovakian woman secretary to "one of the delegates to the United Nations. She was a Czech Communist here, under the auspices of the U. N."

His meeting with Stary, Matusow said, was on a brief visit to New York and "from the way he talked and the fact that this woman and from the Czechoslovakian delegation had been at the ranch, I knew that some activity, espionage activity, was being conducted by the Czechoslovakian government through the U. N. staff."

Juror Heard Acheson Tried To Halt Report

McGranery Said To Have Sought Delay

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—The foreman of a New York federal grand jury testified today he was informed that Secretary of State Acheson did not want the jury to submit a report that disloyal Americans had infiltrated the United Nations.

Joseph P. Kelly also told a group of House investigators that he heard Atty. Gen. McGranery tried to have the report delayed at the last minute. The report was submitted to a federal judge on Dec. 2.

Three other members of the grand jury joined Kelly in accusing the State and Justice Departments of hampering their search for any Americans with Communist backgrounds on the U. N. staff.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said the department had flatly denied that it attempted to interfere with the inquiry when the accusation was first made a couple of weeks ago.

Justice Officials To Testify

G. Frederick Mullen, Justice Department press officer, said McGranery would have no comment on Kelly's testimony. The charges will be answered, he added, when Justice officials appear before the House committee. Mullen said McGranery had not been summoned so far.

Kelly testified he was told about the attitude of the two Cabinet members by Roy M. Cohn, a special assistant U. S. attorney who was assigned to the grand jury but is now with the Justice Department.

The witness related that Cohn joined Myles Lane, U. S. attorney for the Southern District of New York, in a Washington conference with Acheson and McGranery about the Dec. 2 report, officially called a presentment.

"From what Cohn told me," Kelly said, "Acheson didn't want the presentment handed down. Cohn and Lane had a pretty stormy session in Washington."

Kelly went on to say that Cohn also told him on the day the presentment was filed the attorney general urged Cohn by telephone to get the grand jury to hold up until its report could be sent to the Justice Department for examination by McGranery.

Witness Accuses Legislator

"I believe most of our trouble came from the State Department," Kelly testified. "I think the State Department was responsible for all these people being employed by the U. N." He was apparently referring to U. S. citizens whose loyalty has been challenged by the grand jury.

Joseph A. Cahil, another juror, said that "if we had a Justice Department that was willing to cooperate we could have dug up a lot of dirt and filth in the United Nations—and by dirt and filth I mean subversive".

Cahil also testified that four or five Americans employed by the U. N. and suspected of Communist leanings had been recommended to the international body by a member of Congress.

He said the grand jury felt "there was a conspiracy by a subversive clique that had been putting people in important places in the State Department for over 20 years."

Cahil declined to identify the member of Congress, saying he probably was "an unwitting tool in the conspiracy."

NASSAU, Bahamas, Dec. 29 (AP)—The radiant Nancy Oakes, who will soon inherit a huge gold fortune from her father, was married Monday to Ernst Lyssard Von Hoyningen Huene, young German baron, at a brilliant wedding service in this British colonial town.

The candlelight ceremony took place in the Anglican Church of St. Mary the Virgin and was performed by the lord bishop of Nassau, the Rt. Rev. Spence Burton, assisted by the Rev. Canon Holmes.

A glittering society crowd from the Bahamas, the United States, Canada, England and Mexico packed the church and hundreds stood outside during the ceremony, which was in two parts.

It was Nancy's second marriage. Her first marriage to Alfred De Marigny was annulled by the New York Supreme Court in 1950.

Rubinstein was convicted in April, 1947, of evading the World War II draft, and served 2½ years at Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary.

Acquitted In N. Y. Court

After his release from prison, he was tried and acquitted in the New York Federal District Court on charges of violating the Securities and Exchange Act.

The Immigration Service, meanwhile, had started new deportation proceedings resulting finally in last February's final order for his deportation.

Born in Russia, Rubinstein became a Portugese citizen and came to this country in 1938 on a Portugese passport, Presumably, he could be deported to Portugal.

His was a fabulous career in high finance. His methods sometimes were attacked as shady but he seldom failed to show a vast profit.

Eisler To Lose Job With German Reds

BERLIN, Dec. 29 (AP)—Gerhart Eisler is losing his job as propaganda chief of the Communist East German government, the official Communist news agency ADN disclosed today. There were strong indications he is being purged.

The "information office" which Eisler heads will be dissolved Jan. 1 and its functions shifted to the new "press office," ADN announced.

The announcement didn't say who will be given charge of the new press office, but informed East German circles said it might be Eisler's deputy, Albert Norden.

Few saw a bright future for Eisler. The glib propagandist who fled U.S. arrest in 1949 and found a hero's welcome in East Germany, has been falling into obvious disfavor with Communist leaders lately.

Patterson Memorial Award Established

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Secretary of the Army Frank Pace Jr. today announced the establishment of the Robert P. Patterson Memorial Award to be given annually to the outstanding graduate of the infantry officer candidate school at Ft. Benning, Ga.

The award will include a trophy and about $200. It will be presented annually on the birthday, Feb. 12, of former Secretary of War Patterson. He died in an airplane crash early this year.

Eisenhower, GOP Senators Confer Today

Controls' Fate May Hinge On Meeting

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—The fate of wage and price controls may hinge on talks tomorrow between President-elect Eisenhower and Republican Senate leaders.

Controls are due to expire April 30. Eisenhower can seek to have them extended or to let them die. He hasn't tipped his hand yet, although he said in his campaign he favors junking them as soon as feasible.

An informed source said the general has asked a group of advisers to study the whole matter and give him the benefit of their views. This source, declining use of his name, added the group still is up in the air without even a preliminary recommendation.

Sen. Taft To Be Present

Eisenhower talked over his legislative program with GOP House leaders last Dec. 18. He does the same thing at tomorrow's luncheon with Republican Senate leaders, including Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Taft said today he expects price-wage controls to be discussed, although he added:

"The general will bring up the subjects he will discuss."

Another topic presumably on the agenda with the men who will help guide the Eisenhower program through the Senate is last week's announcement by Premier Stalin that he is favorably disposed to confer with Eisenhower.

May Touch On Civil Rights

Although not on the agenda, the senators may seek Eisenhower's views on the touchy questions of civil rights and filibusters.

Eisenhower was quoted last Nov. 28 as saying he would make known to the new Senate "that he wants filibustering stopped."

The report came from Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He said Eisenhower also told him discrimination and segregation should be ended.

Taft will be meeting with the President-elect for the first time since the Ohio senator labeled "incredible" Eisenhower's selection of Martin Durkin of the AFL, as his new secretary of labor.

Taft is slated to be majority leader of the new Republican-controlled Senate.

T-H Injunction Clause Upheld

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—The injunction provision of the controversial Taft-Hartley Act met its first head-on court test today and a federal judge declared the clause constitutional.

District Judge John Knight granted the government an 80-day injunction restraining the CIO United Steelworkers union from continuing a strike at the American Locomotive Company plant at Dunkirk.

"The strike, in effect, is a strike against the government," Knight said. He held that his court had jurisdiction for that reason.

"It seems unthinkable that a strike in a plant producing for the government items now vitally necessary to the defense of this country and the security of its people should be permitted to continue," Knight said.

The approximately 1,500 workers at Dunkirk make nickel-plated pipe that the Atomic Energy Commission says is vital to its program.

Knight said that "delay in the construction of these materials, caused by the Dunkirk strike, will mean a loss in the production of atomic weapons."

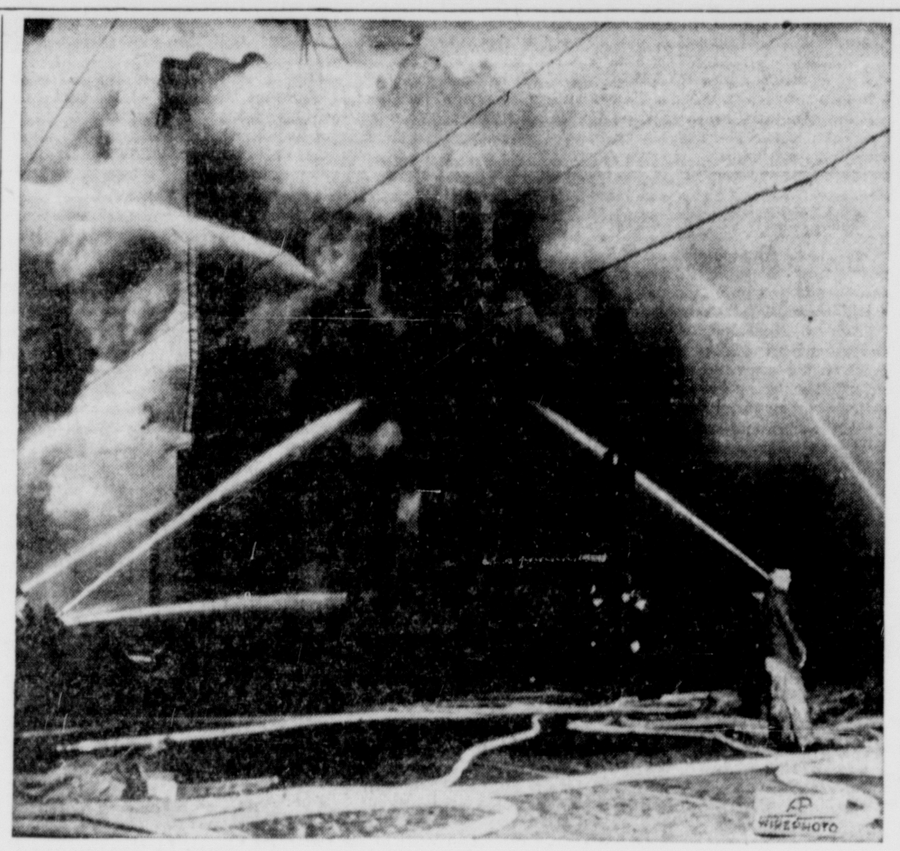
He added: "While technically not at war, existing conditions in Korea are tantamount to war."

Joseph P. Molony, USW state director, said the union would seek a Supreme Court review of the decision.

Ex-Art Model Plans To Become Bullfighter

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 29 (AP)—Marie Tamara Louwe, 24, South African former art model, arrived today from Johannesburg with the announcement she plans to become a bullfighter.

She has already received her first lesson in fighting bulls from Portuguese Toreador Feliciano Antonio at Lourenco Marques in Mozambique, Portugal's East African colony. Marie wants to be fully trained before appearing in the bullrings of Portugal and Mexico.



Six Feared Dead In Chicago Fire

Firemen fight through smoke and flames to get under control this blaze that started with an explosion in the four-story General Furniture Co. on Chicago's southwest side yesterday. Six persons were believed to have been trapped. Late last night, three bodies had been taken from the wreckage.

Nation Must Meet Air Power Goals, Vandenberg Says

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, said today Soviet Russia has produced five times as many planes as the United States during the last five years.

Declaring that any cutback in U. S. plane production could be "catastrophic," Vandenberg said:

"Even today the Russians are equalling our output, or perhaps bettering it."

U. S. "Holiday" Deplored

The U. S. Air Force chief said that with the atomic bomb now in the possession of the Soviet Union, "we are entering a period of increased tension and, in some parts of the world, of acute crisis."

Deploring what he called the American "holiday" in plane production during the postwar years, prior to the outbreak of the Korean War in mid-1950, Vandenberg said:

"We must meet our air power goals if we are to have the strength to counter the threat against our national security and the peace of the world.

Half Of Planes Obsolescent

Vandenberg's call for full speed ahead in aircraft production came in the face of growing reports that the incoming Republican administration and the new GOP-controlled 83rd Congress may seek to trim military spending in the drive to cut over-all federal expenditures.

Vandenberg said that in the 29 months since the United States began its air buildup, the program to create a 143-wing Air Force has attained only the halfway mark.

More than half the Air Force's planes, he said, are obsolescent.

Vandenberg said that during the current buildup, the aircraft industry has delivered some 15,000 planes of all types to the armed services. He said this was "a commendable record, attained under trying semi-mobilization conditions which frequently hampered production."

Marines Present Six Medals To McCarthy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Marine Corps today presented six medals to Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) for gallant and meritorious service as a Marine air combat intelligence officer in the Pacific in World War II.

The presentation was made in the senator's office by Col. John R. Lanigan, commanding officer of the Fifth Reserve Marine District.

McCarthy was given the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal and four stars in lieu of additional air medals.

He told Lanigan that "I have never received and never expect to receive anything I will value more highly."

N.Y. Film Critics Select 'High Noon' As Movie Of Year

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—New York film critics today selected "High Noon" as the best film of 1952 and its director, Fred Zinnemann, for the best direction of the year.

The movie starred Gary Cooper and was produced by Stanley Kramer.

Chosen as the best actor of 1952 was Sir Ralph Richardson for his performance in a British film, "Breaking Through the Sound Barrier."

Shirley Booth won the best actress award for her performance in "Come Back Little Sheba."

Six Feared Dead In Blast And Fire

CHICAGO, Dec 29 (AP)—Three bodies were taken from a furniture store and warehouse which was shattered and charred by a spectacular blast and fire late today.

Fire Marshall Michael J. Corrigan said six persons were believed to have been trapped in the four-story building of the General Furniture Company on the southwest side.

He said he believed there were four employes and two customers caught by the explosion.

The explosion, and blaze that followed sent pedestrians and vehicles at the scene scurrying.

Arnold Leon, president of a furniture company across the street, said he heard a "whoosh," and then the fire burst forth.

"I don't see how anyone could have gotten out alive," he said. "There are at least 12 people who work in the store, and there were customers in there too. I thought it was an atom bomb, it was such a violent explosion. Cars parked in the street outside were catching fire."

Sen. McCarran Denies Trying To Ruin Paper

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev) denied today he conspired to destroy the business of the Las Vegas Sun, a newspaper which criticized him editorially.

McCarran, testifying under oath, said he bore no ill-feeling toward the Sun's publisher, Hank M. Greenspun.

The Navada senator, whose usual role is asking questions, not answering them, was questioned for about six hours during a pre-trial hearing in connection with Greenspun's million-dollar damage suit. McCarran's chairman of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee which has quizzed hundreds of witnesses.

The senator is among some 40 defendants accused by Greenspun of conspiring to put the Sun out of business by withdrawing advertising and other support. Most of the other defendants are connected with Las Vegas hotels and gambling clubs. Gambling is legal in Nevada.

Under questioning of his own attorney, William E. Leahy, McCarran denied, point by point, Greenspun's allegations that he took the lead in forming a conspiracy to destroy the Sun's business.

Under questioning by William A Roberts, Greenspun's Washington attorney, McCarran testified that food and lodging usually was on the house when he visited Las Vegas hotels.

Roberts wanted to know whether McCarran ever gave Las Vegas hotels "chits" to get cash for miscellaneous expenses while visiting Las Vegas.

"No, sir," he answered.

Bertha Adkins Will Call On Eisenhower

Mundt Would Probe Charge Czechs Run Atom Spy Ring

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said today he will urge further Senate investigation of sworn charges that a spy group, based near the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic weapons installation, was operated "by the Czechoslovakian government through the United Nations staff."

The accusation was made by Harvey Matusow of Dayton, Ohio, a self-styled former Communist and one-time informer for the FBI.

Matusow told the story under oath at a public hearing before the Senate internal security subcommittee at Salt Lake City, Utah, last Oct. 8.

He said a man named George Stary, whom he described as "the delegate at that time to the Human Rights Conference of the U. N.," had urged him in the fall of 1950 to ferret out "any atomic secrets that could be obtained in and around Sandia base in Albuquerque and Los Alamos."

Matusow testified that at the time he was regularly quartered at the San Cristobal Valley Ranch, near Taos, N. M., about 80 miles northeast of Los Alamos, and that the place "catered primarily to members of the Communist Party." Among others there, he said, was a Czechoslovakian woman secretary to "one of the delegates to the United Nations. She was a Czech Communist here, under the auspices of the U. N."

His meeting with Stary, Matusow said, was on a brief visit to New York and "from the way he talked and the fact that this woman and from the Czechoslovakian delegation had been at the ranch, I knew that some activity, espionage activity, was being conducted by the Czechoslovakian government through the U. N. staff."

Juror Heard Acheson Tried To Halt Report

McGranery Said To Have Sought Delay

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—The foreman of a New York federal grand jury testified today he was informed that Secretary of State Acheson did not want the jury to submit a report that disloyal Americans had infiltrated the United Nations.

Joseph P. Kelly also told a group of House investigators that he heard Atty. Gen. McGranery tried to have the report delayed at the last minute. The report was submitted to a federal judge on Dec. 2.

Three other members of the grand jury joined Kelly in accusing the State and Justice Departments of hampering their search for any Americans with Communist backgrounds on the U. N. staff.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said the department had flatly denied that it attempted to interfere with the inquiry when the accusation was first made a couple of weeks ago.

Justice Officials To Testify

G. Frederick Mullen, Justice Department press officer, said McGranery would have no comment on Kelly's testimony. The charges will be answered, he added, when Justice officials appear before the House committee. Mullen said McGranery had not been summoned so far.

Kelly testified he was told about the attitude of the two Cabinet members by Roy M. Cohn, a special assistant U. S. attorney who was assigned to the grand jury but is now with the Justice Department.

The witness related that Cohn joined Myles Lane, U. S. attorney for the Southern District of New York, in a Washington conference with Acheson and McGranery about the Dec. 2 report, officially called a presentment.

"From what Cohn told me," Kelly said, "Acheson didn't want the presentment handed down. Cohn and Lane had a pretty stormy session in Washington."

Kelly went on to say that Cohn also told him on the day the presentment was filed the attorney general urged Cohn by telephone to get the grand jury to hold up until its report could be sent to the Justice Department for examination by McGranery.

Witness Accuses Legislator

"I believe most of our trouble came from the State Department," Kelly testified. "I think the State Department was responsible for all these people being employed by the U. N." He was apparently referring to U. S. citizens whose loyalty has been challenged by the grand jury.

Joseph A. Cahil, another juror, said that "if we had a Justice Department that was willing to cooperate we could have dug up a lot of dirt and filth in the United Nations—and by dirt and filth I mean subversive".

Cahil also testified that four or five Americans employed by the U. N. and suspected of Communist leanings had been recommended to the international body by a member of Congress.

He said the grand jury felt "there was a conspiracy by a subversive clique that had been putting people in important places in the State Department for over 20 years."

Cahil declined to identify the member of Congress, saying he probably was "an unwitting tool in the conspiracy."

Heiress, German Baron Are Wed

NASSAU, Bahamas, Dec. 29 (AP)—The radiant Nancy Oakes, who will soon inherit a huge gold fortune from her father, was married Monday to Ernst Lyssard Von Hoyningen Huene, young German baron, at a brilliant wedding service in this British colonial town.

The candlelight ceremony took place in the Anglican Church of St. Mary the Virgin and was performed by the lord bishop of Nassau, the Rt. Rev. Spence Burton, assisted by the Rev. Canon Holmes.

A glittering society crowd from the Bahamas, the United States, Canada, England and Mexico packed the church and hundreds stood outside during the ceremony, which was in two parts.

It was Nancy's second marriage. Her first marriage to Alfred De Marigny was annulled by the New York Supreme Court in 1950.

Lawyer Likens 'Grandma' Bandit To Robin Hood

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29 (AP)—The attorney for Grandma the bank bandit advanced a Robin Hood defense today.

The lawyer, Miss Joan Martin, 30, had a long talk with Mrs. Ethel Arata, 52, confessed robber of two Los Angeles banks who was arrested Christmas Eve while trying to stick up another.

After their tatlk, Miss Martin announced she will enter a plea of innocent for Mrs. Arata.

"The holdups were committed in emporary mental lapses," said the lawyer.

She added she is convinced her client robbed on an "irresistible impulse" to do something to help poor people.

Mrs. Arata said she had only 63 cents the day she was arrested and had given her loot away.

Miss Martin was only one of several who went to the county jail to visit the woman whose father was a multi-millionaire until his wealth was swept away by the 1929 financial crash.

Earlier Mrs. Arata declared robbing a bank "akes no more courage han going ino a sore and buying a loaf of bread."

Educators Sidestep Battle Over Public School Policy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—The American Historical Association tonight sidestepped a showdown fight on the controversial question of whether the nation's public schools have become "anti-intellectual and anti-democratic."

Instead, the association decided a committe should study the question and report back next year.

The mild result was quite a contrast to a buildup that had suggested scholastic fireworks.

A group of educators, headed by Arthur E. Bestor, Jr., of the University of Illinois, had presented a resolution covering four typewritten pages, much of it single spaced.

In it the teachers said they are "alarmed x x by the growth of anti-intellectualist conceptions of education." They said this presents a "serious danger to American intellectual life" and that some of the current educational philosophy is both "anti-intellectual and anti-democratic."

The resolution didn't say in so many words, but Bestor told reporters today the educators are primarily concerned with the hold schools of education have on teaching in grade and high schools.

"The first thing for a teacher is to know his subject," Bestor said, "yet there are persons teaching history who are virtually uninstructed in the subject but do have the required training in education."

The resolution went to the council of the association, which reported back today with the suggestion that a committee be named to study the question. It also suggested that the committee sound out other learned societies and find how they stand on the subject.

A spokesman for the Association of American Railroads said the reduction was due to expire next Jan. 31 but will be extended to July 31, 1953.

Sobeloff Becomes Appeals Court Judge

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 29 (AP)—Simon E. Sobeloff, one of Maryland's best known lawyers, today became chief judge of the Court of Appeals.

Gov. McKeldin swore in his old friend before a crowd of 300 that overflowed the executive office reception room in the Statehouse.

The invited assemblage of dignitaries representing all branches of the state government and Baltimore City witnessed the brief induction ceremony. Repeating the oath after the governor, Sobeloff became the 17th man to head the state's high court since it was formed in 1778.

McKeldin appointed Sobeloff to succeed Judge Charles Markell, who retired earlier this month at the retirement age of 70. The new chief of Maryland's judiciary has no age worry. He is 58. In 1954, however, he must stand for statewide election.

Billy Graham Meets Chiang; Is 'Impressed'

TAIPEH, Formosa, Dec. 29 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham saw President Chiang Kai-shek today and said afterward he thought the U. S. "should give him and the people of free China every help possible."

The American evangelist, on his way home from Korea, told a correspondent he was "very greatly impressed by Chiang Kai-shek's spiritual quality."

Graham later addressed a crowded meeting in downtown Taipeh at which he denounced communism as "the most sinister, vicious evil which ever confronted mankind."

Widow Is Candidate To Succeed Rep. Cox

ATLANTA, Dec. 29 (AP)—Feb. 4 was set today for a special Second District election to name a successor to Rep. E. E. Cox and the widow of the veteran congressman was the first candidate formally to announce.

Mrs. Cox said at Camilla:

"At the urgent suggestion of Eugene and my friends I will be a candidate for Congress for the two-year term. I will not seek the office for longer than the term for which my husband was elected."

Cox, 72, a Democrat, died last Wednesday.

New Regulation Aimed At Curbing Five Percenters

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—The government today announced a new regulation designed to "slam the door" on influence peddlers and five per centers who offer to get government contracts for an illegal fee.

General Services Administrator Jess Larson said in a statement the new set of uniform standards is designed to help government contracting officers "in determining under existing law what is a legitimate arrangement and what is not.

Larson said the standard will "protect the legitimate sales representative by assuring federal contracting officers and business concerns that employing an agent is not illegal and not contrary to government buying practices, so long as prescribed standards are met."

During recent years Congress has investigated a number of cases involving alleged influence peddling and big fees received by five percenters — persons who offer to help get government contracts in return for a percentage of the amount involved.

Larson said the new standards were worked out cooperatively with the Defense Department, which spends most of the government's money.

He said that for the first time they specify in detail the principles which contracting officers should consider in determining whether an agreement or arrangement between an agent and his principal is or is not in violation of the "convenant against contingent fees" clause in federal contracts. This clause prohibits payment of certain types of fees.

Larson said the new regulation continues in effect a policy started in 1950 which requires bidders to state whether or not they have employed agents to get government business.

Producer Claims Gloria Swanson Reneged On Deal

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—A producer claimed today that Actress Gloria Swanson reneged on a movie deal with him after he'd started her on her comeback trail.

In a breach of contract suit in State Supreme Court, producer Paul R. Thoma asked half of Miss Swanson's comeback earnings — which he estimated at half a million dollars.

Miss Swanson has entered a general denial to Thoma's charges. The trial is scheduled for Jan. 7.

Smith Named State's Anti-Subversive Chief

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 29 (AP)—Marvin H. Smith, an Eastern Shore lawyer with counter-intelligence service in the Army, was named today as the legal chief of anti-subversive activities in Maryland.

Smith will replace O. Bowie Duckett next Feb. 1, Rollins said.

Duckett has held the post since it was created three years ago. The so-called Ober Law of 1940, aimed at ferreting out Communist activity in Maryland, called for an assistant attorney general to coordinate investigations by county grand juries as well as make checks of his own.

Educators Sidestep Battle Over Public School Policy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—The American Historical Association tonight sidestepped a showdown fight on the controversial question of whether the nation's public schools have become "anti-intellectual and anti-democratic."

Instead, the association decided a committe should study the question and report back next year.

The mild result was quite a contrast to a buildup that had suggested scholastic fireworks.

A group of educators, headed by Arthur E. Bestor, Jr., of the University of Illinois, had presented a resolution covering four typewritten pages, much of it single spaced.

In it the teachers said they are "alarmed x x by the growth of anti-intellectualist conceptions of education." They said this presents a "serious danger to American intellectual life" and that some of the current educational philosophy is both "anti-intellectual and anti-democratic."

The resolution didn't say in so many words, but Bestor told reporters today the educators are primarily concerned with the hold schools of education have on teaching in grade and high schools.

"The first thing for a teacher is to know his subject," Bestor said, "yet there are persons teaching history who are virtually uninstructed in the subject but do have the required training in education."

The resolution went to the council of the association, which reported back today with the suggestion that a committee be named to study the question. It also suggested that the committee sound out other learned societies and find how they stand on the subject.

Vietminh Pulls Back

HANOI, Indochina, Dec. 29 (AP)—The French high command said tonight Communist-led Vietminh rebels apparently had pulled back from the southern approaches to Lai Chau, chief city in the Thai region about 186 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Rails Continue GI Fare

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Railroads will continue reduced furlough fares for military personnel traveling in uniform at their own expense.

A spokesman for the Association of American Railroads said the reduction was due to expire next Jan. 31 but will be extended to July 31, 1953.

United States farmers harvested more than 13 million acres of soy beans in 1951.

Sobeloff Becomes Appeals Court Judge

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 29 (AP)—Simon E. Sobeloff, one of Maryland's best known lawyers, today became chief judge of the Court of Appeals.

Gov. McKeldin swore in his old friend before a crowd of 300 that overflowed the executive office reception room in the Statehouse.

The invited assemblage of dignitaries representing all branches of the state government and Baltimore City witnessed the brief induction ceremony. Repeating the oath after the governor, Sobeloff became the 17th man to head the state's high court since it was formed in 1778.

McKeldin appointed Sobeloff to succeed Judge Charles Markell, who retired earlier this month at the retirement age of 70. The new chief of Maryland's judiciary has no age worry. He is 58. In 1954, however, he must stand for statewide election.

Billy Graham Meets Chiang; Is 'Impressed'

TAIPEH, Formosa, Dec. 29 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham saw President Chiang Kai-shek today and said afterward he thought the U. S. "should give him and the people of free China every help possible."

The American evangelist, on his way home from Korea, told a correspondent he was "very greatly impressed by Chiang Kai-shek's spiritual quality."

Graham later addressed a crowded meeting in downtown Taipeh at which he denounced communism as "the most sinister, vicious evil which ever confronted mankind."

Widow Is Candidate To Succeed Rep. Cox

ATLANTA, Dec. 29 (AP)—Feb. 4 was set today for a special Second District election to name a successor to Rep. E. E. Cox and the widow of the veteran congressman was the first candidate formally to announce.

Mrs. Cox said at Camilla:

"At the urgent suggestion of Eugene and my friends I will be a candidate for Congress for the two-year term. I will not seek the office for longer than the term for which my husband was elected."

Cox, 72, a Democrat, died last Wednesday.

New Regulation Aimed At Curbing Five Percenters

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—The government today announced a new regulation designed to "slam the door" on influence peddlers and five per centers who offer to get government contracts for an illegal fee.

General Services Administrator Jess Larson said in a statement the new set of uniform standards is designed to help government contracting officers "in determining under existing law what is a legitimate arrangement and what is not.

Larson said the standard will "protect the legitimate sales representative by assuring federal contracting officers and business concerns that employing an agent is not illegal and not contrary to government buying practices, so long as prescribed standards are met."

During recent years Congress has investigated a number of cases involving alleged influence peddling and big fees received by five percenters — persons who offer to help get government contracts in return for a percentage of the amount involved.

Larson said the new standards were worked out cooperatively with the Defense Department, which spends most of the government's money.

He said that for the first time they specify in detail the principles which contracting officers should consider in determining whether an agreement or arrangement between an agent and his principal is or is not in violation of the "convenant against contingent fees" clause in federal contracts. This clause prohibits payment of certain types of fees.

Larson said the new regulation continues in effect a policy started in 1950 which requires bidders to state whether or not they have employed agents to get government business.

Producer Claims Gloria Swanson Reneged On Deal

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—A producer claimed today that Actress Gloria Swanson reneged on a movie deal with him after he'd started her on her comeback trail.

In a breach of contract suit in State Supreme Court, producer Paul R. Thoma asked half of Miss Swanson's comeback earnings — which he estimated at half a million dollars.

Miss Swanson has entered a general denial to Thoma's charges. The trial is scheduled for Jan. 7.

Smith Named State's Anti-Subversive Chief

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 29 (AP)—Marvin H. Smith, an Eastern Shore lawyer with counter-intelligence service in the Army, was named today as the legal chief of anti-subversive activities in Maryland.

Smith will replace O. Bowie Duckett next Feb. 1, Rollins said.

Duckett has held the post since it was created three years ago. The so-called Ober Law of 1940, aimed at ferreting out Communist activity in Maryland, called for an assistant attorney general to coordinate investigations by county grand juries as well as make checks of his own.

Police Arrest Man In Purse Theft

City police last night took into custody a former resident who admitted taking a lady's purse containing $165 from Lee's Tavern, North Mechanic Street.

The man was identified by police as Cecil Laurence Whetsell, about 24, who now resides in Hagerstown. He was nabbed in the Queen City Restaurant by Officer Leo E. P. Law and Lt. James E. Van, of the detective bureau, after a search of various establishments of the city. Mrs. Lewis Edwards, of Greene Street, reported the theft to city police who immediately began an investigation.

A check was made of police files and Whetsell was identified by Mrs. Edwards. The purse had been thrown away and the money was recovered from Whetsell, who had a room at a local hotel during his stay in Cumberland, police noted.

Truman Accuses Oil Firms Of Intimidation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP) — President Truman today accused some business interests, especially oil companies, of trying to sway government agencies through pressure and intimidation. This is as bad, he said, as trying to influence a judge's decision by bribery.

Truman made the statements in a letter to Federal Trade Commissioner Stephen J. Spingarn, who has been charging certain oil companies with trying to discredit the commission as a result of its investigaton of alleged international oil cartels.

Spingarn sent Truman a collection of newspaper clippings and other material in support of his contention. He told Truman he was sending a similar message to President-elect Eisenhower and to the Republican and Democratic national chairmen.

Truman, in a letter made public today, said many federal agencies perform the same function as judges.

New Reserves Set-Up

Reorganization of U.S. military reserves, authorized by the Armed Forces Reserve Act of 1952, will become effective January 1. The new set-up restores to Congress some measure of control over reserves to be called into active duty in the future, but does little to improve the status of reservists involuntarily "called up" to serve in the present emergency.

United States military reserves—Army, Navy, Air Force, and Coast Guard, and including National Guard personnel—will be organized into three groups effective January 1. The new plan was authorized by Congress in an act signed by the President July 9, 1952.

It provides for three reserve classifications within the armed forces of the United States: Ready Reserves, who can be called up "in time of national emergency declared by the Congress or proclaimed by the President"; Standby Reserves, who can be called up involuntarily only in time of war or when otherwise authorized by Congress; and Retired Reserves, who can be called into active duty involuntarily "only in time of war or national emergency declared by the Congress or when otherwise authorized by law."

The reserve forces at the President's beck, the Ready Reserve, are limited to an aggregate for all services of 1,500,000. A caveat applying to the Standby Reserves provides that they may be called up by units or as individuals when the appropriate service secretary, with the approval of the Secretary of Defense, "determines that adequate numbers (of required types of units or qualified members of the Ready Reserve) are not readily available."

After the outbreak of the Korean War, President Truman received blanket authority to call military reserves into active service. On October 18, 1952, President Truman ordered appointments of all Army and Air Force reserve officers expiring October 28 extended until April 1, 1953. On the same date, the Navy and Marines were reported as expecting reservists to make up 76 per cent of their offensive power. Two out of every three strikes flown from carriers off Korea were carried out by reserve Navy or Marine fliers.

The Armed Forces Reserve Act of 1952 provides that from the July 9 date of enactment all appointments of reserve officers shall be continued indefinitely, if the officer in question gives his consent in writing. If the officer does not so agree, the term of his present appointment remains unchanged.

As for reservists called up involuntarily in the present emergency, the act merely states the intent of Congress:

"In view of hardship situations developed by the Korean hostilities that in the interest of fair treatment as between members of the Ready Reserve involuntarily recalled for duty, attention shall be given to the duration and nature of previous service, with the objective of assuring such sharing of hazardous exposure as the national security and the military requirement will reasonably permit, to family responsibilities, and to employment found to be necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety, or interest.

The act, which codifies the reserve organizations of the services, was originally designed to implement Universal Military Training legislation, which failed to pass the House in 1951. Regulations under its provisions do allow men drafted between June 1948 and June 1951 a choice of type of service to complete military obligations. Those who have completed the required 21 months of active duty can wipe the slate clean by staying on active duty another year. Those who have served less than 33 months can transfer to the Ready Reserve (subject to recall) long enough to complete five years of active and inactive service.

Sawyer On Handouts

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer seems to have made good use of his recent trip abroad. His tour of Europe, accompanied by four other high government officials and two industrialists, has inspired a report which many persons should find worth reading.

It was Secretary Sawyer's purpose to survey the economy of Western Europe and ascertain what is being accomplished by Washington's program of economic aid. He discovered, to sum up his findings, that Western Europe is far along the road to recovery and that the time is fast approaching for the United States to bring economic aid to an "orderly" end.

The report did not question that military aid may be needed for a longer period. But it said flatly that "we should not continue to provide economic aid under the disguise of military aid."

Secretary Sawyer is on solid ground in pointing up that economic aid must stop sometime and should stop fairly soon. It is true that to get such help indefinitely is demoralizing to the recipient, weakens the nation meant to be benefited, and eventually inspires resentment instead of gratitude.

Secretary Sawyer, insisting that Western Europe should find its own cure for its ills, still feels that the United States must aid by promoting healthy international trade. But this country, as well as Europe, needs export markets. It cannot continue forever giving away its surpluses and collecting for them from American taxpayers.

How Much Ammunition?

An old axiom is that it is impossible to obtain an objective military picture from a local field commander because he is too close to his problems. That's why armies have general staffs to evaluate reports and demands from the field and place them in proper perspective.

But reports of ammunition shortages in Korea have been so persistent, despite censorship, the conclusion is inescapable that there is, at best, barely enough. Both General Clark and General Eisenhower have made references to the ammunition shortage.

That's why the insistence of a pair of generals in charge of logistics looks a little strange. It may be quite true that there is "plenty of ammunition in Korea to hold the line" as one of the generals stated in a Pentagon conference. But how about emergencies?

The generals say their big problem is the field commander who would fire away everything they gave him in the form of ammunition. That's why there is a daily "ration" of certain types of shells. The inference is that certain commanders are "trigger happy," which probably will not sit well with these commanders when the news of this gets to Korea.

The ammunition situation is part of a larger problem: How much in the form of armaments and ammunition does the nation need? Certainly those who are in Korea should be in a better position to say how much ammunition his troops need than a three star laddy who commutes daily to his Pentagon desk from the hills of Virginia.

How To Keep Well

Babies Are Born With Immunity

Newborn infants rarely develop contagious diseases because temporary immunity is acquired from the mother. This protection usually is transmitted through the placenta prior to birth. We know this occurs because, thru tests made on placental blood, immune substances have been isolated. Unfortunately, this type of immunity seldom lasts longer than six months.

Such maternal immunity is one of the wonders of nature. But it is dependent upon an important consideration: the mother must have had these particular communicable diseases in the past to acquire antibodies against them. Most of the studies along this line have been done on measles. This malady is especially prevalent and the mother who has escaped is exceptional. When this state of affairs exists, however, she and the baby are extremely susceptible to measles.

This combination has led to many unusual observations and has brought up the question: How early can an infant come down with an infectious ailment such as measles? It has been said that if the mother is exposed from one to two weeks prior to delivery the infant stands a chance of coming into the world with measles. There are cases on record in which exposure occurred and the infants developed the disease shortly after birth.

According to the International Medical Digest, Dr. J. L. Kohn reported in 1933 four cases of measles in infants aged 14, 14, and 30 days and 10 weeks respectively. But the only authentic case of a baby born with measles stemmed from the 1938-39 epidemic in northeast Oklahoma, in which 24 cases of measles occurred in pregnant women. Of these, one mother showed all the signs of measles two and a half days before she was delivered of a 7½ pound infant who likewise had a full-blown rash and all the other conventional signs of measles. In this same group, three other babies encountered the disease two days after birth.

The extreme contagiousness of measles was well demonstrated in the epidemic in the Faroe islands more than a century ago. The entire population of this area is isolated and two generations of mothers lacked immunity because measles had been unknown from 1781 to 1846. As a result, when it finally struck, 6,000 of 7,782 inhabitants came down with this condition. The epidemic also illustrated another point. Years had elapsed since the last outbreak, consequently there was no inherent immunity. The majority were seriously ill because they had no resistance against the causative virus.

The antibodies circulating in the mother's blood are not a figment of the imagination. If blood is removed from the placenta and concentrated in a special fashion, it is capable of neutralizing diphtheria toxin and will blanch a scarlet fever rash when injected beneath the reddened skin. It also is said to affect the polio virus and recent tests with immune globulin in several of the polio epidemic areas thruout the country are part of this experimental work. The same serum prevents measles in susceptible individuals if it is obtained from a mixture of blood from many individuals.

GOUT AND THE BLOOD

L. Z. writes: Does gout show up in the blood?

REPLY

The amount of uric acid in the blood is one of the best tests for gout.

ANEMIA AND PREGNANCY

Mrs. T. writes: What effect would anemia have on pregnancy?

REPLY

It lowers resistance and causes fatigue. It also affects the youngster, who comes into the world with an inadequate supply of iron. This is an undesirable situation because it is difficult to make up the deficit since milk contains little of this mineral.

HORNY LESIONS

L. D. writes: What is the cause of senile keratosis?

REPLY

No one knows but these lesions are more common in older persons whose skin has been exposed to the elements for years and years. Such overgrowths should be watched carefully for signs of cancer.

INSIGHT NEEDED

S. F. writes: Can a person overcome a guilt complex without the aid of a psychiatrist?

REPLY

If the origin of the guilt complex is known, relief often follows confession and forgiveness. In some instances this situation is handled successfully by the family physician or spiritual adviser. A psychiatrist is needed usually when the cause is not known or has been forgotten.

STOMACH SIZE

No, but it will stretch considerably and hold almost as much as before.

Mo Crisis For Secretary Humphrey; Hot Maine Potato Lands In Lap Of GOP; Senator Flanders Sees A Nazified Argentina

WASHINGTON — When General Eisenhower first asked George Humphrey, head of the giant M. A. Hanna holding corporation, to become secretary of the Treasury, Humphrey told him that he wouldn't be able to take the job for more than two years.

"Well, that's all right," replied Eisenhower, "but you wouldn't leave me in the middle of a crisis, would you?"

"No," laughed Humphrey, "I would leave before the crisis arrived."

"If you're that smart," concluded Eisenhower, "I certainly want you on my team."

Hot Maine Potato

The Ike administrationites have had a hot potato dumped in their lap in the form of contrite, humble Owen Brewster, the defeated GOP senator from Maine, one-time vigorous opponent of Eisenhower.

Brewster, who has lived in the nation's capital for something like a quarter of a century, now doesn't want to go back to Maine. He wants to stay here and be a part of the Ike administration. Specifically he wants to be assistant secretary of State.

To this end, the retiring senator from Maine has been after secretary of State-to-be John Foster Dulles, has been on the phone getting the support of old friends, and has sent word to the man who defeated him, Senator-elect Fred Payne, that he, Brewster, would retire from the Senate on Dec. 31, thus giving Payne a chance to step in and get seniority ahead of other new senators — provided Payne, in turn, would endorse him to be assistant secretary of State.

Faced with this supplication from the retiring senator from Maine, the Brownell boys — who are handling Ike's jobs — dumped the hot potato into the Senate's lap. In brief they told Brewster to get the support of Senator Margaret Chase Smith, whom he once tried to defeat, and Payne, who defeated him.

Durkin Was Different

This procedure was exactly the opposite of what Brownell did in the appointment of Martin Durkin as secretary of Labor. In that case, not only was Taft not consulted, but Everett Dirksen, Republican senator from Illinois, from which state Durkin comes, was not consulted.

Reason No. 1 for dumping the hot potato is that Brewster has become known as the Senate spokesman of Dictator Franco; also the spokesman of Pan American Airways; and a Senate probe actually revealed that he had been mixed up in tapping the telephone wires of Howard Hughes of Trans World Airlines on behalf of competing Pan American Airways.

Reason No. 2 for being coy about Brewster is that he was vigorously for Taft, and is credited with attempting to smear Eisenhower as "Stalin's stooge."

This smear was first printed by the partisan Republicans of California. Later at a meeting at the home of Senator Brewster, Ralph Masterson, chairman of Maine's Republican State Committee, proposed that the smear be mailed throughout the state, with GOP state funds used for mailing it.

As a result Senator Margaret Smith went on a state-wide radio network to denounce the "Stalin's stooge" smear and vigorously defended Eisenhower.

Later also, Brewster made a statement that he knew nothing about the smear; claimed he was out of the room when Masterson, during the meeting in Brewster's home, proposed that it be distributed.

Argentina Fascism

Senator Ralph Flanders of Vermont came back from a trip to Argentina recently with the impression that that country was becoming nazified.

Flanders was in the Argentine legislature when President Peron read his five-year-plan, which in name at least, was copied after Moscow's and which the senator said "promised everything that the heart of man desires."

"I had the feeling," said Flanders, "that I was seeing the Nazi thing all over again." He conceded, however, that "Peron is much more attractive than Hitler ever was."

Flanders told how the members of the Argentine legislature burst into applause or stood up and applauded when they got the signal. If the passage of the speech was particularly significant, they would stand up and shout "Peron! Peron! Peron!" in unison. Peron would acknowledge the demonstration by standing up and bowing.

"At least he didn't shriek at them like Hitler," Flanders remarked gratefully.

The demonstrations, according to Flanders, always started in the same corners, and the whole legislature followed the example of a couple of key members. They acted as sort of cheer leaders without being too noticeable. The senator said he spotted "one stout lady with a satisfied smile on her face" who set the pace for the applause in her corner.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Dulles To Europe

For the future, there is a lot of interest in the idea of an Eisenhower-Stalin meeting, which has so suddenly been injected into the news. As a matter of fact, it can be said on good authority that both the new President and his future secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, had been weighing this same idea before Generalissimo Stalin indicated he was not opposed to it.

In the State Department, moreover, the thinking of the foremost American diplomatic experts has been running on the same lines. These future advisors of Dulles and Eisenhower reason that it will be cruelly difficult to limit the Korean War, if a grand offensive is launched. They admit that the only way to end the war is to make it hurt the other side more, so long negotiations seem hopeless. Yet they do not believe that either the Russians or the Chinese desire to risk an unlimited war in the Far East.

Hence they argue that there may be a good chance of a peaceful settlement in Korea, if President-elect Eisenhower and Generalissimo Stalin get together to "talk cold turkey."

Europe Gets Priority

In these circumstances, it is a proof of the sound political judgment of the new President and the new secretary of State that they are still inclined to give priority to the problem of Europe. In Europe at the moment, the Western alliance is showing signs of a very great and terrible strain. If these strains reach the breaking point — if Eisenhower meets Stalin with the Western alliance divided and dissolving in his rear — he will not have a bargaining leg to stand on. In such circumstances, Stalin will only be interested in playing a waiting game, in order to see what prizes he may grab from the ruins of the West.

Hence it can be said on the highest authority that the present plan is for John Foster Dulles to go to Europe, and to meet with the Allied leaders, as soon as he has taken his oath as secretary of State.

The need, as forecast some time ago in reports from Europe in this space, is urgent. The NATO plan for European defense, originally drawn by Eisenhower himself, is being chopped down. Both in France and Germany, opposition is rising to the project for a European army, including the German contribution of 12 divisions that is the necessary keystone of any European security system. The whole drive for European unity is losing momentum. In short, the main aims of American policy in Europe are in danger.

The new President and secretary of State were always conscious of this growing danger, despite their quite proper initial preoccupation with the problem of Korea. Their concern seems to have been crystallized into a decision to take action, however, by an informal appeal from the old friend and coworker of both men, John J. McCloy.

Had Special Role

As American high commissioner in Germany, McCloy collaborated intimately with Eisenhower at all times. He had a very special role moreover, in Eisenhower's vital decision to support the European army project, which Eisenhower at first regarded as impractical.

When all hung in the balance, it was McCloy who brought together Eisenhower and the brilliant Frenchman, Jean Monnet, for a discussion of the proposed European army that lasted for almost an entire day. And it was immediately after this crucial meeting, in turn, that Eisenhower delivered his historic speech at the London Guildhall — the finest and clearest call for European union that has been heard since the war.

Many European leaders know this background. Many are also close friends of McCloy. For several of them, therefore, McCloy was a natural confidant. Both Jean Monnet and Germany's Chancellor Conrad Adenauer are known to have been among those who sent McCloy informal warning of the trouble in Europe, combined with pleas for Eisenhower to turn his attention to the European problem.

These informal messages were transmitted at the meeting between Eisenhower, Dulles and McCloy in New York on December 15. The mere news of this meeting caused a significant improvement in the political tone in Germany, where McCloy's name carries so much weight. From this fact one can gauge the potential effect of a journey to Europe by John Foster Dulles, when newly clothed with the authority of secretary of State, and backed by the commanding authority of the new President.

Dulles may have a very hard time. The French political crisis, for instance, will certainly complicate the matter of the European army and the German divisions. Yet if Dulles and Eisenhower can guide American policy safely around this nasty corner, a new perspective can well open.

With a Western alliance again united and confirmed in its purposes, Eisenhower will then be able to speak to Stalin with the most unchallengeable authority. That is the kind of tone of voice that the Russian dictator may well understand and listen to.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Have President-elect Eisenhower and Secretary of State-designate John Foster Dulles made their first serious mistake in shaping prospective foreign policy? Replying publicly to Premier Stalin's ambiguously worded comment on a press inquiry about the chances of peace, the leaders of the next administration have promised to give "serious and sympathetic" consideration to "concrete proposals."

Is this a commitment that will involuntarily compel the United States Government to engage in a series of time-consuming steps during protracted negotiations while the stalemate in Korea goes on indefinitely?

This would repeat the error so often made by the Truman-Acheson administration of asking Stalin to call the turn—of waiting for Russia to state the terms and then arguing for months on end, as in Panmunjom, only to discover that Stalin means nothing except continued tension.

Not Necessary To Comment

It wasn't necessary for the President-elect to say anything at all in comment on a Moscow answer to a newspaper inquiry. General Eisenhower is not yet President and, strictly speaking, under the old but still effective Logan Act, nobody can speak for the Government of the United States except President Truman until January 20, 1953.

The whole incident is a tragic example of the inferiority complex that seems to have dominated not only official Washington but diplomats of the Western powers and their allies. It is journalistically enterprising to ask Stalin questions about his future intentions—for he gets such inquiries by the dozens every week from the press of the world. There is always the chance he will choose to answer one in order to carry out propaganda maneuvers. But the moment the Communist ruler utters a few sentences, insulting and impertinent though they may be, the rest of the world reacts as if an omnipotent or omniscient potentate of respectable prestige had spoken. From all corners of the world then comes the usual comment over the press-association wires telling why this or that government feels that peace "feeler" may be the real thing and should be "explored," because the American government cannot afford to be in the position of rejecting a "peace bid" by Stalin.

One wonders how short are the memories of these diplomats. The long drawn out and futile talks at Panmunjom and the bitter harangues by Soviet spokesmen over the so-called prisoner-of-war issue at the United Nations Assembly emphasized how arrogantly Moscow can behave. The Soviet government feels it can dictate the terms of peace and will continue to feel that way so long as the Western nations fortify that impression by their passive or submissive attitudes and lack of unity.

One wonders how many more American boys have to be killed in Korea with Russian-made jet planes and Russian artillery supplied to Chinese and North Korean Communist armies before the United Nations, including the American government, will summon up enough moral indignation to expel the Soviet Union from the family of civilized nations as did the League of Nations just before World War II.

One wonders, too, how long diplomatic relations are going to be continued with a government in Moscow that has been faithless to its pledges and which today is being supplied raw materials for war-making by nations supposed to be allied with the Western powers.

Assumes Too Much

To assume that the criminals in the Kremlin are capable of making any peace that will be kept is to assume the sincerity of the Communist envoys who have for several months been giving an example of treachery in an armistice negotiation at Panmunjom. To take seriously proposals for a conference now is to forget the many international conferences held since 1945 with the Russians which have ended without result because the Moscow regime thinks of itself as the dictator of the terms of an expected surrender by the West.

President-elect Eisenhower and his new secretary of State have an opportunity to take the initiative in telling Moscow what the terms of peace are and demanding as a prerequisite to any future conference that the Soviets withdraw their armies from all satellite countries, including North Korea, failing which a world-wde embargo and blockade and a policy of nonrecognition of all the Communist governments would ensue.

The moral force of the world is strong enough, if united solidly, to isolate the Kremlin from the Russian people without indulging in war or threats of war. Policies here have to change, however, from an attitude of begging to an attitude of telling—and a readiness to meet force with force if the Kremlin decides to embark on any more wars.

The unofficial comments in various capitals on the latest Stalin utterance show that, instead of keeping Stalin guessing, there is a tendency to let Stalin sit in the driver's seat and keep the West guessing. Maybe the new administration was hurried into its decision the other day to comment on Stalin's answers to a press inquiry. If so, it doesn't augur well for the future. The diplomacy of the United States has too often been run aground by Russia's propaganda strategists. It is time for a change.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Ferrer On Robeson

Paul Robeson is an artist of merit who has become so absorbed by Soviet Russia that he no longer can be regarded as American in any other category but nominal citizenship. He is at this moment the most vehement protagonist of Soviet Russia in this country and his services have been acknowledged by Joe Stalin.

Indignation against Robeson is usually expressed by patriotic Americans who have never been tempted by so-called left-wingism. Yet, no one has ever denounced Paul Robeson with such accurate pinpointing of his unforgivable sins against his native land as Jose Ferrer, actor, who has also been attacked for some of his associations.

Ferrer's language is important because he expresses the problem of the artist who insists on freedom of expression but rejects treason. This is what Ferrer said about Robeson:

"Any American who accepts an award from the Soviet Union today does a tremendous disservice, not only to his country, but to the cause of peace throughout the world. It seems to me to be very clear that up to now the Soviet Union has discredited itself as to believability of intention and honesty of purpose.

"I have always felt deeply about the minority groups and their problems. In the case of Paul Robeson, his action in accepting Stalin's so-called "peace prize" seems to me to be particularly reprehensible because he is doing almost irreparable harm to his own race, and grave injury to the cause of all Negroes. He pretends to be their spokesman, and he is not. I do not believe that Paul Robeson has anything fundamentally in common with Ralph Bunche, Marian Anderson, Joe Louis, Dorothy Maynor, Jackie Robinson, and other Negroes who are winning the uphill battle for Negro rights.

"Nor does he have very much in common with the Negro soldiers in Korea, who are helping to fight the battle for freedom against Communist aggression and dictatorship.

"Anyone who is in the arts must have freedom of expression. As an artist I insist on this privilege for myself and for all others. In its attempts to control artistic and creative expression, communism is indistinguishable from fascism or any other form of dictatorship. This is all the more reason to deplore the course which Paul Robeson has chosen."

The acknowledgment of the undeniable truth that "communism is indistinguishable from fascism" is emotionally difficult for many of those who in the hey-day of Hitlerism were willing to accept Stalin as an alternative. Their error was that there really is no alternative to evil. It is impossible to say that Stalin is less a devil than Hitler, for both were bred by the same Hegelian sire and only differed in the method of achieving an identical end.

Even in the matter of anti-Semitism, Stalin reaches the same position as Hitler did and for the same ends, namely, that any independence of thought or action is repugnant to him. To the very few Negroes who visit his country, Stalin can well present a facade of equality because he has no Negro population in his country, but he does have Jews in sufficient number to require him to reach a conclusion about them and his conclusion is the same as Hitler's was.

Jose Ferrer, therefore, has hit the nail on the head when he establishes the truth that when Robeson serves Stalin, he betrays not only the United States but the Negroes as well. It is a too usual, even though unjust, human trait to generalize from the particular. A handful of Negroes are Communists; therefore the illogical—and logic is perhaps the most difficult and unused of mental exercises—conclude that all, or most, or a great many Negroes are Communists.

Robeson, in particular, stands out like a sore thumb because he is so prominent and active and such a great artist. When he sings "Ole Man River" or "Water Boy," one almost forgets that he is a servant of Stalin's power. It is a pity because Robeson might have been of great service to his race and to this country. Instead, he is abhorred by most Americans and should be.

Jose Ferrer has served his country well by making the issue clear-cut and understandable. It is not the Negro in Robeson that brings him opprobrium in his native land: it is his treachery to its ideals and institutions.

New Reserves Set-Up

Reorganization of U.S. military reserves, authorized by the Armed Forces Reserve Act of 1952, will become effective January 1. The new set-up restores to Congress some measure of control over reserves to be called into active duty in the future, but does little to improve the status of reservists involuntarily "called up" to serve in the present emergency.

United States military reserves—Army, Navy, Air Force, and Coast Guard, and including National Guard personnel—will be organized into three groups effective January 1. The new plan was authorized by Congress in an act signed by the President July 9, 1952.

It provides for three reserve classifications within the armed forces of the United States: Ready Reserves, who can be called up "In time of national emergency declared by the Congress or proclaimed by the President"; Standby Reserves, who can be called up involuntarily only in time of war or when otherwise authorized by Congress; and Retired Reserves, who can be called into active duty involuntarily "only in time of war or national emergency declared by the Congress or when otherwise authorized by law."

The reserve forces at the President's beck, the Ready Reserve, are limited to an aggregate for all services of 1,500,000. A caveat applying to the Standby Reserves provides that they may be called up by units or as individuals when the appropriate service secretary, with the approval of the Secretary of Defense, "determines that adequate numbers (of required types of units or qualified members of the Ready Reserve) are not readily available."

After the outbreak of the Korean War, President Truman received blanket authority to call military reserves into active service. On October 18, 1952, President Truman ordered appointments of all Army and Air Force reserve officers expiring October 28 extended until April 1, 1953. On the same date, the Navy and Marines were reported as expecting reservists to make up 76 per cent of their offensive power. Two out of every three strikes flown from carriers off Korea were carried out by reserve Navy or Marine fliers.

The Armed Forces Reserve Act of 1952 provides that from the July 9 date of enactment all appointments of reserve officers shall be continued indefinitely, if the officer in question gives his consent in writing. If the officer does not so agree, the term of his present appointment remains unchanged.

As for reservists called up involuntarily in the present emergency, the act merely states the intent of Congress:

"In view of hardship situations developed by the Korean hostilities that in the interest of fair treatment as between members of the Ready Reserve involuntarily recalled for duty, attention shall be given to the duration and nature of previous service, with the objective of assuring such sharing of hazardous exposure as the national security and the military requirement will reasonably permit, to family responsibilities, and to employment found to be necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety, or interest.

The act, which codifies the reserve organizations of the services, was originally designed to implement Universal Military Training legislation, which failed to pass the House in 1951. Regulations under its provisions do allow men drafted between June 1948 and June 1951 a choice of type of service to complete military obligations. Those who have completed the required 21 months of active duty can wipe the slate clean by staying on active duty another year. Those who have served less than 33 months can transfer to the Ready Reserve (subject to recall) long enough to complete five years of active and inactive service.

We know this occurs because, thru tests made on placental blood, immune substances have been isolated. Unfortunately, this type of immunity seldom lasts longer than six months.

Such maternal immunity is one of the wonders of nature. But it is dependent upon an important consideration: the mother must have had these particular communicable diseases in the past to acquire antibodies against them. Most of the studies along this line have been done on measles. This malady is especially prevalent and the mother who has escaped is exceptional. When this state of affairs exists, however, she and the baby are extremely susceptible to measles.

This combination has led to many unusual observations and has brought up the question: How early can an infant come down with an infectious ailment such as measles? It has been said that if the mother is exposed from one to two weeks prior to delivery the infant stands a chance of coming into the world with measles. There are cases on record in which exposure occurred and the infants developed the disease shortly after birth.

According to the International Medical Digest, Dr. J. L. Kohn reported in 1933 four cases of measles in infants aged 14, 14, and 30 days and 10 weeks respectively. But the only authentic case of a baby born with measles stemmed from the 1938-39 epidemic in northeast Oklahoma, in which 24 cases of measles occurred in pregnant women. Of these, one mother showed all the signs of measles two and a half days before she was delivered of a 7½ pound infant who likewise had a full-blown rash and all the other conventional signs of measles. In this same group, three other babies encountered the disease two days after birth.

The extreme contagiousness of measles was well demonstrated in the epidemic in the Faroe islands more than a century ago. The entire population of this area is isolated and two generations of mothers lacked immunity because measles had been unknown from 1781 to 1846. As a result, when it finally struck, 6,000 of 7,782 inhabitants came down with this condition. The epidemic also illustrated another point. Years had elapsed since the last outbreak, consequently there was no inherent immunity. The majority were seriously ill because they had no resistance against the causative virus.

The antibodies circulating in the mother's blood are not a figment of the imagination. If blood is removed from the placenta and concentrated in a special fashion, it is capable of neutralizing diphtheria toxin and will blanch a scarlet fever rash when injected beneath the reddened skin. It also is said to affect the polio virus and recent tests with immune globulin in several of the polio epidemic areas thruout the country are part of this experimental work. The same serum prevents measles in susceptible individuals if it is obtained from a mixture of blood from many individuals.

GOUT AND THE BLOOD

L. Z. writes: Does gout show up in the blood?

REPLY

The amount of uric acid in the blood is one of the best tests for gout.

ANEMIA AND PREGNANCY

Mrs. T. writes: What effect would anemia have on pregnancy?

REPLY

It lowers resistance and causes fatigue. It also affects the youngster, who comes into the world with an inadequate supply of iron. This is an undesirable situation because it is difficult to make up the deficit since milk contains little of this mineral.

HORNY LESIONS

L. D. writes: What is the cause of senile keratosis?

REPLY

No one knows but these lesions are more common in older persons whose skin has been exposed to the elements for years and years. Such overgrowths should be watched carefully for signs of cancer.

INSIGHT NEEDED

S. F. writes: Can a person overcome a guilt complex without the aid of a psychiatrist?

REPLY

If the origin of the guilt complex is known, relief often follows confession and forgiveness. In some instances this situation is handled successfully by the family physician or spiritual adviser. A psychiatrist is needed usually when the cause is not known or has been forgotten.

STOMACH SIZE

J. L. writes: After two-thirds of the stomach is removed in an ulcer operation, will the organ regrow to its normal size.

REPLY

No, but it will stretch considerably and hold almost as much as before.

Mo Crisis For Secretary Humphrey; Hot Maine Potato Lands In Lap Of GOP; Senator Flanders Sees A Nazified Argentina

WASHINGTON — When General Eisenhower first asked George Humphrey, head of the giant M. A. Hanna holding corporation, to become secretary of the Treasury, Humphrey told him that he wouldn't be able to take the job for more than two years.

"Well, that's all right," replied Eisenhower, "but you wouldn't leave me in the middle of a crisis, would you?"

"No," laughed Humphrey, "I would leave before the crisis arrived."

Hot Maine Potato

The Ike administrationites have had a hot potato dumped in their lap in the form of contrite, humble Owen Brewster, the defeated GOP senator from Maine, one-time vigorous opponent of Eisenhower.

Brewster, who has lived in the nation's capital for something like a quarter of a century, now doesn't want to go back to Maine. He wants to stay here and be a part of the Ike administration. Specifically he wants to be assistant secretary of State.

To this end, the retiring senator from Maine has been after secretary of State-to-be John Foster Dulles, has been on the phone getting the support of old friends, and has sent word to the man who defeated him, Senator-elect Fred Payne, that he, Brewster, would retire from the Senate on Dec. 31, thus giving Payne a chance to step in and get seniority ahead of other new senators — provided Payne, in turn, would endorse him to be assistant secretary of State.

Faced with this supplication from the retiring senator from Maine, the Brownell boys — who are handling Ike's jobs — dumped the hot potato into the Senate's lap. In brief they told Brewster to get the support of Senator Margaret Chase Smith, whom he once tried to defeat, and Payne, who defeated him.

Durkin Was Different

This procedure was exactly the opposite of what Brownell did in the appointment of Martin Durkin as secretary of Labor. In that case, not only was Taft not consulted, but Everett Dirksen, Republican senator from Illinois, from which state Durkin comes, was not consulted.

Reason No. 1 for dumping the hot potato is that Brewster has become known as the Senate spokesman of Dictator Franco; also the spokesman of Pan American Airways; and a Senate probe actually revealed that he had been mixed up in tapping the telephone wires of Howard Hughes of Trans World Airlines on behalf of competing Pan American Airways.

Reason No. 2 for being coy about Brewster is that he was vigorously for Taft, and is credited with attempting to smear Eisenhower as "Stalin's stooge."

This smear was first printed by the partisan Republicans of California. Later at a meeting at the home of Senator Brewster, Ralph Masterson, chairman of Maine's Republican State Committee, proposed that the smear be mailed throughout the state, with GOP state funds used for mailing it.

As a result Senator Margaret Smith went on a state-wide radio network to denounce the "Stalin's stooge" smear and vigorously defended Eisenhower.

Later also, Brewster made a statement that he knew nothing about the smear; claimed he was out of the room when Masterson, during the meeting in Brewster's home, proposed that it be distributed.

Argentina Fascism

Senator Ralph Flanders of Vermont came back from a trip to Argentina recently with the impression that that country was becoming nazified.

Flanders was in the Argentine legislature when President Peron read his five-year-plan, which in name at least, was copied after Moscow's and which the senator said "promised everything that the heart of man desires."

"I had the feeling," said Flanders, "that I was seeing the Nazi thing all over again." He conceded, however, that "Peron is much more attractive than Hitler ever was."

Flanders told how the members of the Argentine legislature burst into applause or stood up and applauded when they got the signal. If the passage of the speech was particularly significant, they would stand up and shout "Peron! Peron! Peron!" in unison. Peron would acknowledge the demonstration by standing up and bowing.

"At least he didn't shriek at them like Hitler," Flanders remarked gratefully.

The demonstrations, according to Flanders, always started in the same corners, and the whole legislature followed the example of a couple of key members. They acted as sort of cheer leaders without being too noticeable. The senator said he spotted "one stout lady with a satisfied smile on her face" who set the pace for the applause in her corner.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Dulles To Europe

For the future, there is a lot of interest in the idea of an Eisenhower-Stalin meeting, which has so suddenly been injected into the news. As a matter of fact, it can be said on good authority that both the new President and his future secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, had been weighing this same idea before Generalissimo Stalin indicated he was not opposed to it.

In the State Department, moreover, the thinking of the foremost American diplomatic experts has been running on the same lines. These future advisors of Dulles and Eisenhower reason that it will be cruelly difficult to limit the Korean War, if a grand offensive is launched. They admit that the only way to end the war is to make it hurt the other side more, so long negotiations seem hopeless. Yet they do not believe that either the Russians or the Chinese desire to risk an unlimited war in the Far East.

Hence they argue that there may be a good chance of a peaceful settlement in Korea, if President-elect Eisenhower and Generalissimo Stalin get together to "talk cold turkey."

Europe Gets Priority

In these circumstances, it is a proof of the sound political judgment of the new President and the new secretary of State that they are still inclined to give priority to the problem of Europe. In Europe at the moment, the Western alliance is showing signs of a very great and terrible strain. If these strains reach the breaking point — if Eisenhower meets Stalin with the Western alliance divided and dissolving in his rear — he will not have a bargaining leg to stand on. In such circumstances, Stalin will only be interested in playing a waiting game, in order to see what prizes he may grab from the ruins of the West.

Hence it can be said on the highest authority that the present plan is for John Foster Dulles to go to Europe, and to meet with the Allied leaders, as soon as he has taken his oath as secretary of State.

The need, as forecast some time ago in reports from Europe in this space, is urgent. The NATO plan for European defense, originally drawn by Eisenhower himself, is being chopped down. Both in France and Germany, opposition is rising to the project for a European army, including the German contribution of 12 divisions that is the necessary keystone of any European security system. The whole drive for European unity is losing momentum. In short, the main aims of American policy in Europe are in danger.

The new President and secretary of State were always conscious of this growing danger, despite their quite proper initial preoccupation with the problem of Korea. Their concern seems to have been crystallized into a decision to take action, however, by an informal appeal from the old friend and coworker of both men, John J. McCloy.

Had Special Role

As American high commissioner in Germany, McCloy collaborated intimately with Eisenhower at all times. He had a very special role moreover, in Eisenhower's vital decision to support the European army project, which Eisenhower at first regarded as impractical.

When all hung in the balance, it was McCloy who brought together Eisenhower and the brilliant Frenchman, Jean Monnet, for a discussion of the proposed European army that lasted for almost an entire day. And it was immediately after this crucial meeting, in turn, that Eisenhower delivered his historic speech at the London Guildhall — the finest and clearest call for European union that has been heard since the war.

Many European leaders know this background. Many are also close friends of McCloy. For several of them, therefore, McCloy was a natural confidant. Both Jean Monnet and Germany's Chancellor Conrad Adenauer are known to have been among those who sent McCloy informal warning of the trouble in Europe, combined with pleas for Eisenhower to turn his attention to the European problem.

These informal messages were transmitted at the meeting between Eisenhower, Dulles and McCloy in New York on December 15. The mere news of this meeting caused a significant improvement in the political tone in Germany, where McCloy's name carries so much weight. From this fact one can gauge the potential effect of a journey to Europe by John Foster Dulles, when newly clothed with the authority of secretary of State, and backed by the commanding authority of the new President.

Dulles may have a very hard time. The French political crisis, for instance, will certainly complicate the matter of the European army and the German divisions. Yet if Dulles and Eisenhower can guide American policy safely around this nasty corner, a new perspective can well open.

With a Western alliance again united and confirmed in its purposes, Eisenhower will then be able to speak to Stalin with the most unchallengeable authority. That is the kind of tone of voice that the Russian dictator may well understand and listen to.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Have President-elect Eisenhower and Secretary of State-designate John Foster Dulles made their first serious mistake in shaping prospective foreign policy? Replying publicly to Premier Stalin's ambiguously worded comment on a press inquiry about the chances of peace, the leaders of the next administration have promised to give "serious and sympathetic" consideration to "concrete proposals."

Is this a commitment that will involuntarily compel the United States Government to engage in a series of time-consuming steps during protracted negotiations while the stalemate in Korea goes on indefinitely?

This would repeat the error so often made by the Truman-Acheson administration of asking Stalin to call the turn—of waiting for Russia to state the terms and then arguing for months on end, as in Panmunjom, only to discover that Stalin means nothing except continued tension.

Not Necessary To Comment

It wasn't necessary for the President-elect to say anything at all in comment on a Moscow answer to a newspaper inquiry. General Eisenhower is not yet President and, strictly speaking, under the old but still effective Logan Act, nobody can speak for the Government of the United States except President Truman until January 20, 1953.

The whole incident is a tragic example of the inferiority complex that seems to have dominated not only official Washington but diplomats of the Western powers and their allies. It is journalistically enterprising to ask Stalin questions about his future intentions—for he gets such inquiries by the dozens every week from the press of the world. There is always the chance he will choose to answer one in order to carry out propaganda maneuvers. But the moment the Communist ruler utters a few sentences, insulting and impertinent though they may be, the rest of the world reacts as if an omnipotent or omniscient potentate of respectable prestige had spoken. From all corners of the world then comes the usual comment over the press-association wires telling why this or that government feels that peace "feeler" may be the real thing and should be "explored," because the American government cannot afford to be in the position of rejecting a "peace bid" by Stalin.

One wonders how short are the memories of these diplomats. The long drawn out and futile talks at Panmunjom and the bitter harangues by Soviet spokesmen over the so-called prisoner-of-war issue at the United Nations Assembly emphasized how arrogantly Moscow can behave. The Soviet government feels it can dictate the terms of peace and will continue to feel that way so long as the Western nations fortify that impression by their passive or submissive attitudes and lack of unity.

One wonders how many more American boys have to be killed in Korea with Russian-made jet planes and Russian artillery supplied to Chinese and North Korean Communist armies before the United Nations, including the American government, will summon up enough moral indignation to expel the Soviet Union from the family of civilized nations as did the League of Nations just before World War II.

One wonders, too, how long diplomatic relations are going to be continued with a government in Moscow that has been faithless to its pledges and which today is being supplied raw materials for war-making by nations supposed to be allied with the Western powers.

Assumes Too Much

To assume that the criminals in the Kremlin are capable of making any peace that will be kept is to assume the sincerity of the Communist envoys who have for several months been giving an example of treachery in an armistice negotiation at Panmunjom. To take seriously proposals for a conference now is to forget the many international conferences held since 1945 with the Russians which have ended without result because the Moscow regime thinks of itself as the dictator of the terms of an expected surrender by the West.

President-elect Eisenhower and his new secretary of State have an opportunity to take the initiative in telling Moscow what the terms of peace are and demanding as a prerequisite to any future conference that the Soviets withdraw their armies from all satellite countries, including North Korea, failing which a world-wde embargo and blockade and a policy of non-recognition of all the Communist governments would ensue.

The moral force of the world is strong enough, if united solidly, to isolate the Kremlin from the Russian people without indulging in war or threats of war. Policies here have to change, however, from an attitude of begging to an attitude of telling—and a readiness to meet force with force if the Kremlin decides to embark on any more wars.

The unofficial comments in various capitals on the latest Stalin utterance show that, instead of keeping Stalin guessing, there is a tendency to let Stalin sit in the driver's seat and keep the West guessing. Maybe the new administration was hurried into its decision the other day to comment on Stalin's answers to a press inquiry. If so, it doesn't augur well for the future. The diplomacy of the United States has too often been run aground by Russia's propaganda strategists. It is time for a change.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Ferrer On Robeson

Paul Robeson is an artist of merit who has become so absorbed by Soviet Russia that he no longer can be regarded as American in any other category but nominal citizenship. He is at this moment the most vehement protagonist of Soviet Russia in this country and his services have been acknowledged by Joe Stalin.

Indignation against Robeson is usually expressed by patriotic Americans who have never been tempted by so-called left-wingism. Yet, no one has ever denounced Paul Robeson with such accurate pinpointing of his unforgivable sins against his native land as Jose Ferrer, actor, who has also been attacked for some of his associations.

Ferrer's language is important because he expresses the problem of the artist who insists on freedom of expression but rejects treason. This is what Ferrer said about Robeson:

"Any American who accepts an award from the Soviet Union today does a tremendous disservice, not only to his country, but to the cause of peace throughout the world. It seems to me to be very clear that up to now the Soviet Union has discredited itself as to believability of intention and honesty of purpose.

"I have always felt deeply about the minority groups and their problems. In the case of Paul Robeson, his action in accepting Stalin's so-called "peace prize" seems to me to be particularly reprehensible because he is doing almost irreparable harm to his own race, and grave injury to the cause of all Negroes. He pretends to be their spokesman, and he is not. I do not believe that Paul Robeson has anything fundamentally in common with Ralph Bunche, Marian Anderson, Joe Louis, Dorothy Maynor, Jackie Robinson, and other Negroes who are winning the uphill battle for Negro rights.

"Nor does he have very much in common with the Negro soldiers in Korea, who are helping to fight the battle for freedom against Communist aggression and dictatorship.

"Anyone who is in the arts must have freedom of expression. As an artist I insist on this privilege for myself and for all others. In its attempts to control artistic and creative expression, communism is indistinguishable from fascism or any other form of dictatorship. This is all the more reason to deplore the course which Paul Robeson has chosen."

The acknowledgment of the undeniable truth that "communism is indistinguishable from fascism" is emotionally difficult for many of those who in the hey-day of Hitlerism were willing to accept Stalin as an alternative. Their error was that there really is no alternative to evil. It is impossible to say that Stalin is less a devil than Hitler, for both were bred by the same Hegelian sire and only differed in the method of achieving an identical end.

Even in the matter of anti-Semitism, Stalin reaches the same position as Hitler did and for the same ends, namely, that any independence of thought or action is repugnant to him. To the very few Negroes who visit his country, Stalin can well present a facade of equality because he has no Negro population in his country, but he does have Jews in sufficient number to require him to reach a conclusion about them and his conclusion is the same as Hitler's was.

Jose Ferrer, therefore, has hit the nail on the head when he establishes the truth that when Robeson serves Stalin, he betrays not only the United States but the Negroes as well. It is a too usual, even though unjust, human trait to generalize from the particular. A handful of Negroes are Communists; therefore the illogical—and logic is perhaps the most difficult and unused of mental exercises—conclude that all, or most, or a great many Negroes are Communists.

Robeson, in particular, stands out like a sore thumb because he is so prominent and active and such a great artist. When he sings "Ole Man River" or "Water Boy," one almost forgets that he is a servant of Stalin's power. It is a pity because Robeson might have been of great service to his race and to this country. Instead, he is abhorred by most Americans and should be.

Jose Ferrer has served his country well by making the issue clear-cut and understandable. It is not the Negro in Robeson that brings him opprobrium in his native land: it is his treachery to its ideals and institutions.

State Gives County Money For New School Buildings

A check for $490,687 was received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday from the state as a grant-in-aid for the Lonaconing school project.

The money was sent as part of the allocation for new schools being erected in the county. The Lonaconing school project is more than three-fourths completed, and the check is for the state aid on this basis.

The board will turn over the funds to the board of Education.

The commissioners also decided to follow the same work schedule at the Court House as during Christmas week.

The board will meet again today. The Court House will be closed Thursday, Friday and Saturday. All county employes, except the Roads Department, will be given a four-day holiday.

J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, said repair work on the Pinto bridge across the Potomac river will be completed sometime soon. The work has been in progress since December 15. The contract for the job is held by the George Construction Company.

Another bridge, across the Evitts Creek at the intersection of Mason and Mount Pleasant roads, was opened to traffic last week after having been under construction about three months. This bridge collapsed last May when an overloaded lumber truck was driven onto the structure.

Coleman Hearing Set January 5

William E. Coleman, 305 Virginia Avenue, who was arrested Friday on two gaming charges involving Bunny's Billiard Parlor in South End, will be given a hearing January 5 in Police Court.

Officer Leo E. P. Law of the Detective Bureau said he went to the poolroom to investigate a complaint about gambling. Cards, poker chips and money were found on a table, he added.

Coleman was charged with violating city ordinances which ban gambling and gaming devices in poolrooms. He posted $70 bond.

Dorey Stahlman, Hyndman, was fined $25 yesterday on two misdemeanor counts including the concealment of a weapon. Police nabbed him last Wednesday for carrying a "switch-blade" knife.

Thousands Of Cards In Dead Letter Office

The local Post Office received several thousand cards and letters during the recent Christmas mailing rush which had to be turned over to the "Dead Letter Office" due to improper addresses or poor handwriting.

Many cards were addressed to many persons in this area who died during the last few years, and also to many who moved to other sections of the country.

When the Post Office is able to check addresses through the city directory the cards are re-addressed to the proper place.

Pool Room Application Pending Court Action

Action will be withheld on the application of Nicholas Peterson to open a pool room at 19 North Liberty Street.

Commissioner John J. Long told the Mayor and Council yesterday that court action is pending in January or February on the premises and he preferred waiting that settlement before acting.

Police Commissioner John J. Long apparently ran afoul of the law Saturday.

Council Has Completed Slate

Members of the Fort Hill Hi-Y Club attended yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council but heard one of the shortest sessions of the year—about 15 minutes.

Mayor Roy W. Eves, in greeting the group, said the council had been working so faithfully since taking office in April that "we have the city's business for the year cleared up and there's very little left."

Eves said he extended an invitation for the boys to return at another time.

Yesterday's meeting was the last regular session for 1952.

City Fire Chief Urges Quick Disposal Of Christmas Trees

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker warned Cumberland householders that Christmas trees should be disposed of as soon as possible.

Gaily-decked evergreens look innocent but they are potential fire bombs, Parker said, adding that they are full of resinous sap which is most highly inflammable.

The hazard increases each hour the tree remains indoors. Home heating system stealthily dehydrate what little fire-retardant moisture remained in the evergreen when it was cut from the stump.

Pointing out that it takes only a couple of days for the tree to reach the dangerous stage, Parker advised:

"Get rid of the old tree in fire-safe areas outdoor; don't toss it against the garage because the family car may go up in smoke if a carelessly-flipped cigaret lands in the dried out boughs; keep old trees away from buildings.

"Your evergreen will give you ample warning when it's prepared for a fiery fate. Once the needles start dropping the torch song has replaced the Christmas carols.

"Above all, don't try burning the tree in furnaces, stoves or fireplaces. Evergreens burn with almost explosive violence, and the best disposal plan is to have the tree hauled away to some public dump."

"We've been lucky so far and I hope we get through the holiday season without any disastrous fires," Parker said.

Tentative dates for the collection of Christmas trees have been set for the week of January 4-10.

The board will meet again today. The Court House will be closed Thursday, Friday and Saturday. All county employes, except the Roads Department, will be given a four-day holiday.

J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, said repair work on the Pinto bridge across the Potomac river will be completed sometime soon. The work has been in progress since December 15. The contract for the job is held by the George Construction Company.

Another bridge, across the Evitts Creek at the intersection of Mason and Mount Pleasant roads, was opened to traffic last week after having been under construction about three months. This bridge collapsed last May when an overloaded lumber truck was driven onto the structure.

Thousands Of Cards In Dead Letter Office

The local Post Office received several thousand cards and letters during the recent Christmas mailing rush which had to be turned over to the "Dead Letter Office" due to improper addresses or poor handwriting.

Many cards were addressed to many persons in this area who died during the last few years, and also to many who moved to other sections of the country.

When the Post Office is able to check addresses through the city directory the cards are re-addressed to the proper place.

LOCATES HERE—A. J. Pool Room Application Pending Court Action

Action will be withheld on the application of Nicholas Peterson to open a pool room at 19 North Liberty Street.

Commissioner John J. Long told the Mayor and Council yesterday that court action is pending in January or February on the premises and he preferred waiting that settlement before acting.

Long Gets Ticket

Police Commissioner John J. Long apparently ran afoul of the law Saturday.

A veteran patrolman tagged him for illegal parking, and the commissioner posted the usual $1 bond yesterday at Police Headquarters.

Council Has Completed Slate

Members of the Fort Hill Hi-Y Club attended yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council but heard one of the shortest sessions of the year—about 15 minutes.

Mayor Roy W. Eves, in greeting the group, said the council had been working so faithfully since taking office in April that "we have the city's business for the year cleared up and there's very little left."

Eves said he extended an invitation for the boys to return at another time.

Yesterday's meeting was the last regular session for 1952.

City Fire Chief Urges Quick Disposal Of Christmas Trees

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker warned Cumberland householders that Christmas trees should be disposed of as soon as possible.

Gaily-decked evergreens look innocent but they are potential fire bombs, Parker said, adding that they are full of resinous sap which is most highly inflammable.

The hazard increases each hour the tree remains indoors. Home heating system stealthily dehydrate what little fire-retardant moisture remained in the evergreen when it was cut from the stump.

Pointing out that it takes only a couple of days for the tree to reach the dangerous stage, Parker advised:

"Get rid of the old tree in fire-safe areas outdoor; don't toss it against the garage because the family car may go up in smoke if a carelessly-flipped cigaret lands in the dried out boughs; keep old trees away from buildings.

"Your evergreen will give you ample warning when it's prepared for a fiery fate. Once the needles start dropping the torch song has replaced the Christmas carols.

"Above all, don't try burning the tree in furnaces, stoves or fireplaces. Evergreens burn with almost explosive violence, and the best disposal plan is to have the tree hauled away to some public dump."

"We've been lucky so far and I hope we get through the holiday season without any disastrous fires," Parker said.

Tentative dates for the collection of Christmas trees have been set for the week of January 4-10.

Coleman Hearing Set January 5

William E. Coleman, 305 Virginia Avenue, who was arrested Friday on two gaming charges involving Bunny's Billiard Parlor in South End, will be given a hearing January 5 in Police Court.

Officer Leo E. P. Law of the Detective Bureau said he went to the poolroom to investigate a complaint about gambling. Cards, poker chips and money were found on a table, he added.

Coleman was charged with violating city ordinances which ban gambling and gaming devices in poolrooms. He posted $70 bond.

Dorey Stahlman, Hyndman, was fined $25 yesterday on two misdemeanor counts including the concealment of a weapon. Police nabbed him last Wednesday for carrying a "switch-blade" knife.

League Holds Party

The Mixed Bowling League of Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks, held its annual jingle party Sunday with approximately 40 attending.

The committee in charge was composed of H. Clifton Hafer, league president, C. Eugene Howell and Polly Harman.

One-Way Plan Studied

Converting Fairview Avenue in North End to a one-way street is being studied by the Police Department, Commissioner John J. Long said yesterday.

Long told the Mayor and Council the street is "very narrow" and he would like reaction to the proposal.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 29 (INS)—While Clark Gable is in darkest Africa perspiring with the temperature at 100 degrees in the shade and thinking of home(and, believe me, he has been thinking of home), Dore Schary has bought "Green Fire" for him.

It's the story of a mining engineer and is laid in the old emerald mines in South America.

This means more traveling, too, for Clark, because the picture will be made in Colombia where these fabulous mines are located. Clark plays the mining engineer.

Meanwhile, Producer Armand Deutsch has put Everett Freeman to work on the script.

In spite of all the talk that Hildegarde Neff would be dropped by 20th, her option has been picked up and starts Feb. 15. But the much discussed Miss Neff won't be coming home to so much as give a nod to her studio because she's been loaned to Sir Alexander Korda for "Berlin Story."

I must say this story of modern Berlin has an interesting cast. Already signed is Claire Bloom, the English girl who rated such good reviews in "Limelight" although the picture itself drew controversial comment. Since returning to Europe Miss Bloom has not made a picture and has devoted herself to the stage and her ballet work.

Katharine Hepburn, who was such a hit in London in "The Millionairess," and who didn't do so well in this country, is going back to London in the spring. That's because she has a deal to film the George Bernard Shaw play as an independent setup. A British company will make the movie.

Negotiations are going on with Charles Boyer to co-star with Katie, and that should really be an excellent team. I can't forget how good Boyer was in "Don Juan in Hell," one of the greatest of all time performances on the stage, I thought.

Katie comes to Hollywood next week, after "The Millionairess" closes.

The Rome-American news says that Vittorio Gassman cannot possibly return to Hollywood until April, because he is under contract to play "Hamlet," "Othello," and "Treste" untill that time.

Shelley Winters verifies this and tells me that the Italian government finances the stage tour he is making. The cost is $80,000 for the tour, but he receives only $100 a week.

"Treste," by Seneca, was first presented in the Coliseum in Rome. The sets are being done by Dali. "There are two live lions painted blue that follow Vittorio all through the play," said Shelley.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Marilyn Maxwell is readying a night club act in which she will work with four men after the style of Kay Thompson. Well, Kay did all right.

I can't really take it seriously when I am told Denise Darcel's new romance is David Street. She has too many heart attacks.

Gina Lollobridgia figures in the news more and more. She'll be Humphrey Bogart's leading lady in "Beat the Devil," and after that Errol Flynn will make movie love to her in "William Tell," which will be made in Switzerland in April.

Ginger Rogers and Jacques Bergerac are frequent visitors to the Cocoanut Grove to hear Jean Sablon, who is an old friend of Bergerac's.

When I asked what Walter Slezak was doing with an antique crossbow he said he and Lauritz Melchior are going on a wild boar hunt in Mexico.

Bing Crosby will take his youngest son, Lindsay, on a trip to Europe next summer because he feels Lindsay has shown such aptitude for painting.

Maureen O'Sullivan and John Farrow and the seven children came to give me a preview of Maureen's new mink coat, her Christmas gift, and of the children's robes. All seven youngsters, each one prettier than the other, are happy that their father was home.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Make good use of your perfume! To men, enchanting femininity and enchanting fragrance are inseparable.

ets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The appeal perfume has for men is attested by sales figures: More men purchase perfume for women than do women for themselves. When men wish to show their regard for a woman in some tangible fashion, the first thing they think of is perfume—to them enchanting fragrance and enchanting femininity are inseparable.

This is something of which every charmer should take note. Perhaps it will correct one of the most wasteful habits women have, that of hoarding their precious attars instead of using them. Perfume is one of the things which do not keep indefinitely. Even with the seal unbroken, perfume stales and deteriorates in fragrance right in the bottle.

And more than perfume is squandered when you use it merely as a dressing-table decoration. Also lost is the pleasure a scent gives those around you as well as the lift is gives to your own spirits.

So open up those Christmas bottles today and get off to a smart start by using the correct method to remove the stopped. It is refuses to budge, gently and evenly tap it with some other glass object. If it's still stubborn, hold the neck of the bottle under warm water for a minute or two and then tap some more. Strongarmed methods will lead to accidents, so patience is what pays off.

Once the bottle is opened, use the scent astutely. Apply it in sufficient amounts for enjoyment. Whisk it on the pulse spots at the wrist, throat and temples and on the inside hem of your skirt.

Always recap the bottles tightly to prevent any loss through evaporation. Even when you sadly drain the bottle's last drop, it can make a further contribution to your charm. Place the opened container in your bureau drawer and the fragrance that clings will permeate your lingerie lingeringly and long. You'll garner benefits right down to the last whiff!

What's more, by that time the man in your life will wish to express his further appreciation of your exquisite ways—and you will be the recipient of another flacon so that you can continue trailing the cloud of fragrance that he so much admires.

Fort Knox Gold May Be Audited By Republicans

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The billions in gold stored at Fort Knox during 16 years of Democratic administration may be audited by the incoming Republican regime.

For years, various GOP members of Congress have been pressing for an investigation to determine whether the bullion is intact.

One legislator went so far as to question whether the gold was actually in the Kentucky vaults. He asked his colleagues in a House speech whether any of them had ever seen it. No one answered.

Now, with a Republican administration coming into control for the first time since the Fort Knox repository was established in 1937, their demands may be met. William C. Cole, newly-elected Republican congressman from Missouri, who made a campaign issue of it, said he will introduce a resolution calling for a check. Rep. Carroll D. Kearns (R), Pennsylvania, probably will do the same.

The Treasury department, hitting back at the doubting Thomases, says it would take a large crew of experts two years to check the gold hoard.

In any event, declared Leland Howard, assistant director of the mint, an investigation will disclose only one thing: "There's not one cent missing." Howard said the Fort Knox vaults now hold gold valued at $12,483,415,360 and consists of 11,146 tons.

Each ton of gold is worth $1,120,000. It is stored in 28-pound bars, slightly smaller than an ordinary building brick. Howard said there is enough gold at Fort Knox to fill a 10-room house.

Howard declared that "a most meticulous and accurate check" is kept of the gold and its value is known each day down to the exact cent. He added that it would be impossible for a single bar to be taken away without being accounted for.

The assistant director disclosed that since the government first began storing gold at Fort Knox, a military reservation 30 miles from Louisville, there have been only three major deposits. They totaled 15½ billion, the last being made in 1941.

Howard added that the only major withdrawal was made in 1946 to settle international trade balances. It totaled $3 billion.

Howard explained the procedure which accompanies the receipt of gold at Fort Knox. It is delivered to the two-story gold vault, which is separated into compartments, each protected by steel doors.

As each compartment is filled, the gold bars are weighed and two committees of experts appointed by the director of the mint and the director at Fort Knox record it. The committees then certify that the count is accurate and seal the door.

Each compartment is checked twice annually to make sure the seals are intact. Furthermore, each vault is opened twice weekly by guards. In the event a seal is found to be damaged, the gold in the compartment is then removed and recounted, following which it is resealed.

The exterior of the gold vault is made of steel and concrete and is further protected by guard boxes and other protective devices. The door to the vault, which is underground, weighs 26 tons. It can be opened only by two men working together. Two combinations open the twin locks and no one individual knows both of them.

Although Fort Knox is the greatest depository of gold in the world, there are substantial amounts of the valuable bullion stored elsewhere in the United States.

The rest of the $23½ billion in gold owned by the government is placed for safekeeping in the Philadelphia, Denver and San Francisco mints and in government assay ofices in New York and Seattle.

Howard said the Denver mint has about $6 billion worth of gold, while the New York assay office has $4 billion.

The assistant director explained that fluctuations in the government's gold holdings occur mainly at the New York assay office, which is constantly receiving and disbursing gold.

On the other hand, he emphasized, there is very little change in the amount of gold kept at Fort Knox because the Kentucky repository is maintained mainly as a storage place for reserve bullion.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 29 (INS)—While Clark Gable is in darkest Africa perspiring with the temperature at 100 degrees in the shade and thinking of home(and, believe me, he has been thinking of home), Dore Schary has bought "Green Fire" for him.

It's the story of a mining engineer and is laid in the old emerald mines in South America.

This means more traveling, too, for Clark, because the picture will be made in Colombia where these fabulous mines are located. Clark plays the mining engineer.

Meanwhile, Producer Armand Deutsch has put Everett Freeman to work on the script.

Odd-Named Rockets Mean Trouble For U. S. Enemies

By CHARLES J. THOBABEN
Central Press Staff Writer

INYOKERN, Calif.—Tiny Tim—Mighty Mouse—Holy Moses.

Odd terms, but they all mean the same thing—trouble for enemies of the United States. All are rockets of the types designed, developed, tested and perfected at one of the greatest research and development centers in the country, the U. S. Naval Ordnance test station here in the Mojave desert.

Sprawling over the desert 160 miles from Los Angeles, NOTS has a unique organization under naval command. Technical control of the research and development program is under civilian control and civilians outnumber military personnel nearly six to one.

The station's facilities include Armitage field, ranges for firing of rockets and missiles both from the air and from the ground, test tracks for controlled flight of missiles, pilot tanks for the production of the items to be tested and Michelson laboratory, the $8,000,000 heart of the operations.

In addition to these, NOTS operates facilities on San Clemente island, 60 miles off the California coast, for underwater ballistics experiments and study of high velocity water entry problems; a plant and laboratory in Pasadena, and a $2,000,000 launcher at Morris dam, the vertical angle of which can be adjusted up to 40 degrees.

The latter is the only one of its kind in the world. At various angles and with controlled velocities, projectiles are launched from it during experiments just as they would normally be launched by an aircraft in flight.

Development of new missiles is no overnight project. Illustrative of the time required to perfect a new weapon for America's arsenal is a brief history of the Mighty Mouse, the 2.75-inch rocket designed primarily for air-to-air combat, but also very effective in attacks on ground targets.

First plans were drawn in 1948. By the following year, development had progressed to the point where Inyokern's facilities could produce a large number of the missiles for tests on the sprawling desert ranges. Now it is in combat use, but the tests will go on with the collaboration of the Air Force to perfect it further.

The Mighty Mouse, is strictly a product of the jet age and far surpasses in potency and effectiveness the rockets of World War II. Although so small that they can be carried in clusters to be fired singly or as a salvo, a single Mighty Mouse is able to destroy any plane flying today with a direct hit.

The work of NOTS is not widely known to the public and much of it, by its very nature, is highly secret, but in any case it goes on, day in and day out, in a never-ending drive to develop and perfect even mightier Mouses.

School-Operated Television Station: A Practicality Or Just Nice Dream?

By SANFORD MARKEY
Written for Central Press

Shall schools and colleges have their own television stations and networks — or shall all available channels be turned over to commercial interests?

Behind the answer to that vexing question may be the solution to ownership of approximately 242 highly-desired television channels now set aside for non-commercial educational uses in the major communities of the nation.

The Federal Communications Commission has, for the time being, ruled that about 10 per cent of the nation's 2,500 channels be reserved for exclusive non-commercial educational television. Most educators heartily approve; some educators and most of the broadcasting industry say this is a waste of money, time, and valuable air rights.

Typical of the wholesome split in opinion is Cleveland where for 25 years the board of education has operated its own FM station, WBOE.

"Education missed the boat in radio and in films," declared Mark C. Shinnerer, superintendent of Cleveland public schools, "and we can't afford to miss it again. Education must have its own TV channels."

Shinnerer and other advocates of educational TV, including Senator William Benton, formerly head of the advertising firm of Benton and Bowles, believe that if "television is allowed to mushroom along the lines of commercial radio, it will never do the great and urgent educational and public service required by the times."

Some educators, including President John S. Millis of Western Reserve university in Cleveland, and many broadcasters including Judge Justin Miller, president of the National Association of Broadcasters and now chairman of the board of the National Association Radio-Television Broadcasters, believe education "can not and should not" compete with commercial TV.

Dr. Millis declares: "To do a half-hour television show takes 10 times as much effort and preparation as a half-hour lecture," and educational institutions haven't the time, money, nor manpower to program as extensively as TV programming calls for.

Judge Miller indicated to the FCC that, based on 1949 figures, it takes approximately $47,000 a month to operate a TV station; that construction cost would be $380,000 for a 5-kilowatt transmitter equipped with film, remote and studio facilities. Such expenditures, allowed Judge Miller, would be better used to increase teacher salaries and for new school structures.

Judge Miller said NARTB believes no specific number of channels should be allocated for exclusive educational video. Instead, commercial and educational interests should file for channels and, according to Judge Miller, the FCC should award channels to either commercial or educational applicants on the basis of the applicant's financial ability, programming plans and community interest.

Educators point out cost is not the determining factor; that educational necessities such as gyms, business education, music instruction, etc., were considered frills until the public realized such courses "played important roles in the education of youth and adults, and then the public willingly voted the additional funds."

Already, educational systems have started financial plans for their own TV stations. In St. Louis, members of the board of education said they favored spending $75,000 for the first year of a proposed TV station. In Cleveland, Charles A. Mooney, president of the board of education, filed for Channel 25, saying, "Our annual operating budget is roughly $29,000,000. Based upon the cost data we have secured for a television station, an annual $2.50 per pupil expenditure with our enrollment of 100,000 would finance an educational outlet. At the present time, we are spending $100,000 annually for an FM station, and $100,000 for visual-aide education."

It is expected that educational systems with FM stations will utilize as much of their radio facilities as would be possible. It is also pointed out that although one educational institution would get a channel, use of that channel would be turned over to a "foundation that would include other educational institutions, museums, park boards, civic and political organizations, etc.," so that operating costs and programming would not be the burden of any one unit.

Already an estimated nine construction permits have been granted by the FCC for non-commercial educational video stations. Among those given a green light include Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science at Manhattan; University of the State of New York for stations at Albany, Buffalo, and Rochester; and the University of Houston and the Houston, Tex., public school system, the latter already having been promised large financial grants by Hugh Cullen, multi-millionaire oil tycoon.

An estimated 30 other communities, including Detroit, Cincinnati, Boston, Providence, Cleveland, etc., are in the process of setting up "foundations to incorporate community needs" before filing with the FCC.

Only one education TV station is operating: WOI-TV—Iowa State college. Its operation is being opposed by the Iowa Broadcasting association which last July called for the termination of the station's license on grounds that a state-supported institution selling program time is "unfair competition" and represents improper use of taxpayers' money."

Meanwhile, in many communities, commercial television has shown it is willing to grant to educational institutions "A" time for television programs. In Cleveland, for example, Western Reserve university has been conducting a series of morning programs through the facilities of WEWS.

Viewers can watch these daily half-hour programs for college credit, if they enrolled in W.R.U., or these programs can be enjoyed as "just plain education." John Carroll university, Case Tech, as well as boards of education have also enjoyed free "public service" time over the city's other two channels, WNBK and WXEL.

The results of these programs has emphasized television's ability to open new horizons for education, and educators are maintaining that this limited programming is only an indication for the need for educational TV so that "the job can be done thoroughly and not be left to the whims and fancies of commercial TV station operators."

The State Department says there are 491 Communist divisions ready to take the field. The western powers reportedly aim at 4,000 warplanes for Europe's defense by the end of 1952. Odd-Named Rockets Mean Trouble For U. S. Enemies

By CHARLES J. THOBABEN

INYOKERN, Calif.—Tiny Tim—Mighty Mouse—Holy Moses.

Odd terms, but they all mean the same thing—trouble for enemies of the United States. All are rockets of the types designed, developed, tested and perfected at one of the greatest research and development centers in the country, the U. S. Naval Ordnance test station here in the Mojave desert.

Sprawling over the desert 160 miles from Los Angeles, NOTS has a unique organization under naval command. Technical control of the research and development program is under civilian control and civilians outnumber military personnel nearly six to one.

The station's facilities include Armitage field, ranges for firing of rockets and missiles both from the air and from the ground, test tracks for controlled flight of missiles, pilot tanks for the production of the items to be tested and Michelson laboratory, the $8,000,000 heart of the operations.

In addition to these, NOTS operates facilities on San Clemente island, 60 miles off the California coast, for underwater ballistics experiments and study of high velocity water entry problems; a plant and laboratory in Pasadena, and a $2,000,000 launcher at Morris dam, the vertical angle of which can be adjusted up to 40 degrees.

The latter is the only one of its kind in the world. At various angles and with controlled velocities, projectiles are launched from it during experiments just as they would normally be launched by an aircraft in flight.

The work of NOTS is not widely known to the public and much of it, by its very nature, is highly secret, but in any case it goes on, day in and day out, in a never-ending drive to develop and perfect even mightier Mouses.

Alabama And Texas Favored In Orange And Cotton Bowls

Crimson Tide Conceded Edge Of 13 Points

'Bama Will Appear In 10th Bowl Tilt Against Syracuse

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP) — If Syracuse upsets Alabama in the Orange Bowl football game, it won't be because the Crimson Tide is overconfident, says Alabama Athletic Director Pete Cawthon.

It was pointed out to Cawthon that bowl games are old stuff to Alabama, which has played in ten of them before, and the Tide players might be taking it lightly. Syracuse, on the other hand, will be playing its first major post-season game is determined to make a good showing.

"Alabama hasn't played in a bowl game since the Sugar Bowl in 1948," Cawthon replied. "None of the players on our squad ever appeared in a bowl. As a result, they have great enthusiasm. They want this one."

Bobby Marlowe, chief Alabama ground gainer, chimed in with: I think we will win, but I know we'll have our hands full."

"It's an even game," added Coach Red Drew.

Sabotin Kayoed By Patterson

Olympic Champion Stops Lalu In 5th

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (INS) — Olympic Middleweight Champ Floyd Patterson of New York stopped Lalu Sabotin of Warren, O., in 1:30 of the fifth round in a scheduled eight-round main event tonight at Eastern Parkway Arena.

Referee Mark Conn stopped the one-sided contest as Sabotin was able to offer little or no resistance to the persistent and solid punching attack of Patterson. The TKO was Patterson's fourth straight triumph as a professional and it marked his debut as a main-eventer.

Patterson won his first three pro starts by knockouts.

The Olympic star weighed 167½. Sabotin scaled 175.

Tony DeSpirito Nearing Record

Rides Four Winners, Boosts Total To 385

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP) — Apprentice Jockey Tony DeSpirito, driving to break the world's riding record of 388, brought in four winners in seven races at Tropical Park today and pushed his total for the year to 385 with two days to go.

The whopping Monday crowd of 15,197 gave the nervy little Lawrence, Mass., boy thunderous applause when he came whirling home to win the first, second, fifth and seventh races. He did not have mounts in the third and fourth, finished out of the money in the sixth and eighth, and was third in the ninth.

"I think I'll break the record now," DeSpirito said, "if I can just get the mounts."

His agent, Norman Sudduth, said he had six mounts for Tuesday "and I'm taking all the horses I can get."

The all-time riding record was set by Walter Miller in 1906 and tied by Joe Culmone and Willie Shoemaker in 1950.

Trojans Aiming To End Big Ten's Winning Streak

Badgers Shooting For 7th Straight

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 29 (AP)—Hundreds of Big Ten football rooters began to stream into town today, the sun shone in its nicest fashion and the two Rose Bowl teams, Wisconsin and Southern California, launched into final drills for their date New Year's Day.

By special train, plane and automobile, Badger supporters arrived, headed by Wisconsin Gov. Walter J. Kohler and Wisconsin's 155-piece band.

The muscle men, meanwhile resumed practices at their respective fields and approximately 100,000 eyewitnesses, plus millions of television watchers, got ready for the annual fray.

Expert opinion was still divided, with the local horn tooters for the most part predicting a Trojan victory and an end to the long domination by Big Ten teams stretching back six games.

Much of the coast hope is based on what would appear to be superior reserve strength of Southern Cal in both offensive and defense platoons.

A large part of the Badger attack concerns Left Halfback Harland Carl, who missed three games entirely this fall but whose running average of 7.4 yards per carry gave him the best mark on the team.

Carl, however, is rated in the china doll class, easily broken, and even today is on the casualty list and a doubtful starter. He has a badly bruised right knee.

Odds On Dallas Game Shortest In 17 Seasons

Texans Are Favorites Over Tennessee By Only 1½ Points

DALLAS, Dec. 29 (AP) — Indications are that Texas and Tennessee will enter the Cotton Bowl game Thursday with the shortest odds of any of the major New Year's Day football clashes.

They certainly are the shortest in the 17-year history of the Dallas post-season game—a point and a half favoring Texas. Even that is too much, according to Coach Ed Price of Texas. Acting Head Coach Harvey Robinson of Tennessee thinks it's not enough but he wouldn't broaden them by more than five and a half.

The odds opened at a point and a half two weeks ago. There has been no change and won't be.

Price says he doesn't know the reason his team is favored, even if it's by such a small margin.

In 1950 Texas was a touchdown favorite to beat Tennessee. And the game also was advertised as a struggle between offense and defense. Tennessee wasn't supposed to have much scoring power except through using the opposition's mistakes.

But lo and behold! Tennessee made 340 yards rushing and passing and scored three touchdowns while Texas, which was supposed to be a big ball of fire offensively, got only 243 yards and two touchdowns.

Alabama And Texas Favored In Orange And Cotton Bowls

'Bama Will Appear In 10th Bowl Tilt Against Syracuse

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP) — If Syracuse upsets Alabama in the Orange Bowl football game, it won't be because the Crimson Tide is overconfident, says Alabama Athletic Director Pete Cawthon.

It was pointed out to Cawthon that bowl games are old stuff to Alabama, which has played in ten of them before, and the Tide players might be taking it lightly. Syracuse, on the other hand, will be playing its first major post-season game is determined to make a good showing.

"Alabama hasn't played in a bowl game since the Sugar Bowl in 1948," Cawthon replied. "None of the players on our squad ever appeared in a bowl. As a result, they have great enthusiasm. They want this one."

Bobby Marlowe, chief Alabama ground gainer, chimed in with: I think we will win, but I know we'll have our hands full."

"It's an even game," added Coach Red Drew.

Tony DeSpirito Nearing Record

Rides Four Winners, Boosts Total To 385

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP) — Apprentice Jockey Tony DeSpirito, driving to break the world's riding record of 388, brought in four winners in seven races at Tropical Park today and pushed his total for the year to 385 with two days to go.

The whopping Monday crowd of 15,197 gave the nervy little Lawrence, Mass., boy thunderous applause when he came whirling home to win the first, second, fifth and seventh races. He did not have mounts in the third and fourth, finished out of the money in the sixth and eighth, and was third in the ninth.

"I think I'll break the record now," DeSpirito said, "if I can just get the mounts."

His agent, Norman Sudduth, said he had six mounts for Tuesday "and I'm taking all the horses I can get."

The all-time riding record was set by Walter Miller in 1906 and tied by Joe Culmone and Willie Shoemaker in 1950.

Trojans Aiming To End Big Ten's Winning Streak

Badgers Shooting For 7th Straight

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 29 (AP)—Hundreds of Big Ten football rooters began to stream into town today, the sun shone in its nicest fashion and the two Rose Bowl teams, Wisconsin and Southern California, launched into final drills for their date New Year's Day.

By special train, plane and automobile, Badger supporters arrived, headed by Wisconsin Gov. Walter J. Kohler and Wisconsin's 155-piece band.

The muscle men, meanwhile resumed practices at their respective fields and approximately 100,000 eyewitnesses, plus millions of television watchers, got ready for the annual fray.

Expert opinion was still divided, with the local horn tooters for the most part predicting a Trojan victory and an end to the long domination by Big Ten teams stretching back six games.

Much of the coast hope is based on what would appear to be superior reserve strength of Southern Cal in both offensive and defense platoons.

A large part of the Badger attack concerns Left Halfback Harland Carl, who missed three games entirely this fall but whose running average of 7.4 yards per carry gave him the best mark on the team.

Carl, however, is rated in the china doll class, easily broken, and even today is on the casualty list and a doubtful starter. He has a badly bruised right knee.

Odds On Dallas Game Shortest In 17 Seasons

Texans Are Favorites Over Tennessee By Only 1½ Points

DALLAS, Dec. 29 (AP) — Indications are that Texas and Tennessee will enter the Cotton Bowl game Thursday with the shortest odds of any of the major New Year's Day football clashes.

They certainly are the shortest in the 17-year history of the Dallas post-season game—a point and a half favoring Texas. Even that is too much, according to Coach Ed Price of Texas. Acting Head Coach Harvey Robinson of Tennessee thinks it's not enough but he wouldn't broaden them by more than five and a half.

The odds opened at a point and a half two weeks ago. There has been no change and won't be.

Price says he doesn't know the reason his team is favored, even if it's by such a small margin.

In 1950 Texas was a touchdown favorite to beat Tennessee. And the game also was advertised as a struggle between offense and defense. Tennessee wasn't supposed to have much scoring power except through using the opposition's mistakes.

But lo and behold! Tennessee made 340 yards rushing and passing and scored three touchdowns while Texas, which was supposed to be a big ball of fire offensively, got only 243 yards and two touchdowns.

Aussies Lead In Cup Tests

Sedgman, McGregor Score In Singles

ADELAIDE, Australia, Dec. 29 (AP)—American tennis forces prayed for a modern miracle, and needed it, as they prepared to send Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert against Australia's Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor tomorrow in the doubles phase of the Davis Cup Challenge round.

To keep their flickering hopes alive, the U. S. lads must take the measure of these two court killers who blasted out singles victories today to send Australia off to a commanding 2-0 lead.

The doubles joust will begin at 2 p. m., Adelaide time, or at 11:30 p. m. tonight Monday EST. Most American experts fear their hopes of recapturing the international trophy this year will be finally dashed an hour or so later.

An Australian triumph tomorrow would make the final singles jousts Wednesday a mere formality. On that day, Sedgman is slated to meet Trabert and McCregor to play Seixas.

The curly-haired Sedgman measured up to every inch of his rating as the world's premier amateur by cutting down Seixas, the U. S. captain from Philadelphia in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Afterwards, McGregor came onto the memorial drive courts to drive home what certainly appeared to be the finishing blow by smashing Trabert, 11-9, 6-4, 6-1.

Bell Is Certain Baltimore Will Get Grid Berth

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29 (AP)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League conceded today that Baltimoreans virtually had bought themselves professional football for next year, but he still refused to hint who might own and coach the team.

"It looks like Baltimore is going to sell its quota without any question," Bell was quoted after being told 12,270 season tickets have been sold.

Bell guaranteed a league franchise next year if Baltimore sold 15,000 tickets by Jan. 22.

"I am still considering three persons as owner," Bell said. He would give no clue to their identity other than that "two of them are Baltimoreans."

One Baltimorean mentioned frequently is Carroll Rosenbloom, a cloth ing manufacturer who played football at the University of Pennsylvania when Bell was the coach.

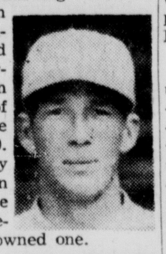
Bell said he also has contacted two men now coaching professional football who said they "are interested in coming to Baltimore."

The term "horsepower" originated from experiment carried out with strong draft horses by James Watt, who was trying to find out the rate at which a horse does its work.

As You Were

(This is the 38th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

Baseball followers will identify this fellow quickly but his record as a pitcher is so remarkable it's really worth rehashing. After breaking in with the Midland Indians he started his career in organized ball with M a rtinsburg of the Blue Ridge League in 1919. Some writers say he went there on a bicycle but the tall lefthander reports he never owned one.



He won three and lost three for the Blue Sox and then was sold to Jack Dunn's Baltimore Orioles. The money from this sale was reported to have been used to help build a fence around the Martinsburg park. At Baltimore he won 85 and lost 36 with five straight I. L. pennant winners (1920-1924). Dunnie sold him to the Philadelphia A's for a figure exceeding $100,000 and he toiled for Mr. Mack for nine years (1925-1933) before being traded along with Max Bishop and Rube Walberg to the Boston Red Sox for Warstler, Kline and $125,000 in 1933. He was with the Bosox eight seasons until his retirement in 1941.

In 23 seasons of organized ball with four clubs he won 388 games and lost 180 for a percentage of .683. During his 17 years in the majors he won 300, lost 41, appeared in 616 games, pitched 3,940 innings, fanned 2,271, walked 1,187 and had an earned run average of 3.09. His best year was 1931 when he won 31 and lost 4 for the A's. He equalled the league record that year when he won 16 consecutive games. In 1928 he bagged 14 wins in a row. In 1923 he fanned 330 I. L. batsmen and his best mark in the A. L. was 214 in 1930.

He led the A. L. with low earned run average for nine years, in games won four times, in won and lost percentages five times, in strikeouts seven times, in complete games three times, in shutouts three times and made the major league all-star teams five times. He appeared in three World Series, winning four and losing two and pitched in three All-Star games. His name? Are you kidding?

Yep, he's Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, of Lonaconing. The baseball books have his date of birth as March 6, 1900. A plaque bearing his name and achievements appears in Baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y. He's often been called "Baseball's Greatest Left Hander" and his name has appeared on many major league all-time teams. The photo was taken in 1925.

Aussies Lead In Cup Tests

Sedgman, McGregor Score In Singles

ADELAIDE, Australia, Dec. 29 (AP)—American tennis forces prayed for a modern miracle, and needed it, as they prepared to send Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert against Australia's Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor tomorrow in the doubles phase of the Davis Cup Challenge round.

To keep their flickering hopes alive, the U. S. lads must take the measure of these two court killers who blasted out singles victories today to send Australia off to a commanding 2-0 lead.

The doubles joust will begin at 2 p. m., Adelaide time, or at 11:30 p. m. tonight Monday EST. Most American experts fear their hopes of recapturing the international trophy this year will be finally dashed an hour or so later.

An Australian triumph tomorrow would make the final singles jousts Wednesday a mere formality. On that day, Sedgman is slated to meet Trabert and McCregor to play Seixas.

The curly-haired Sedgman measured up to every inch of his rating as the world's premier amateur by cutting down Seixas, the U. S. captain from Philadelphia in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Afterwards, McGregor came onto the memorial drive courts to drive home what certainly appeared to be the finishing blow by smashing Trabert, 11-9, 6-4, 6-1.

Bell Is Certain Baltimore Will Get Grid Berth

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29 (AP)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League conceded today that Baltimoreans virtually had bought themselves professional football for next year, but he still refused to hint who might own and coach the team.

"It looks like Baltimore is going to sell its quota without any question," Bell was quoted after being told 12,270 season tickets have been sold.

Bell guaranteed a league franchise next year if Baltimore sold 15,000 tickets by Jan. 22.

"I am still considering three persons as owner," Bell said. He would give no clue to their identity other than that "two of them are Baltimoreans."

One Baltimorean mentioned frequently is Carroll Rosenbloom, a cloth ing manufacturer who played football at the University of Pennsylvania when Bell was the coach.

Bell said he also has contacted two men now coaching professional football who said they "are interested in coming to Baltimore."

Sedgman, McGregor Score In Singles

ADELAIDE, Australia, Dec. 29 (AP)—American tennis forces prayed for a modern miracle, and needed it, as they prepared to send Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert against Australia's Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor tomorrow in the doubles phase of the Davis Cup Challenge round.

To keep their flickering hopes alive, the U. S. lads must take the measure of these two court killers who blasted out singles victories today to send Australia off to a commanding 2-0 lead.

The doubles joust will begin at 2 p. m., Adelaide time, or at 11:30 p. m. tonight Monday EST. Most American experts fear their hopes of recapturing the international trophy this year will be finally dashed an hour or so later.

An Australian triumph tomorrow would make the final singles jousts Wednesday a mere formality. On that day, Sedgman is slated to meet Trabert and McCregor to play Seixas.

The curly-haired Sedgman measured up to every inch of his rating as the world's premier amateur by cutting down Seixas, the U. S. captain from Philadelphia in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Afterwards, McGregor came onto the memorial drive courts to drive home what certainly appeared to be the finishing blow by smashing Trabert, 11-9, 6-4, 6-1.

Bell Is Certain Baltimore Will Get Grid Berth

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29 (AP)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League conceded today that Baltimoreans virtually had bought themselves professional football for next year, but he still refused to hint who might own and coach the team.

"It looks like Baltimore is going to sell its quota without any question," Bell was quoted after being told 12,270 season tickets have been sold.

Bell guaranteed a league franchise next year if Baltimore sold 15,000 tickets by Jan. 22.

"I am still considering three persons as owner," Bell said. He would give no clue to their identity other than that "two of them are Baltimoreans."

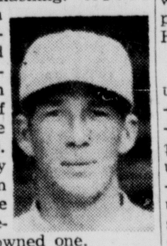
One Baltimorean mentioned frequently is Carroll Rosenbloom, a cloth ing manufacturer who played football at the University of Pennsylvania when Bell was the coach.

Bell said he also has contacted two men now coaching professional football who said they "are interested in coming to Baltimore."

The term "horsepower" originated from experiment carried out with strong draft horses by James Watt, who was trying to find out the rate at which a horse does its work.

As You Were

(This is the 38th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)



Baseball followers will identify this fellow quickly but his record as a pitcher is so remarkable it's really worth rehashing. After breaking in with the Midland Indians he started his career in organized ball with Martinsburg of the Blue Ridge League in 1919. Some writers say he went there on a bicycle but the tall lefthander reports he never owned one.

He won three and lost three for the Blue Sox and then was sold to Jack Dunn's Baltimore Orioles. The money from this sale was reported to have been used to help build a fence around the Martinsburg park. At Baltimore he won 85 and lost 36 with five straight I. L. pennant winners (1920-1924). Dunnie sold him to the Philadelphia A's for a figure exceeding $100,000 and he toiled for Mr. Mack for nine years (1925-1933) before being traded along with Max Bishop and Rube Walberg to the Boston Red Sox for Warstler, Kline and $125,000 in 1933. He was with the Bosox eight seasons until his retirement in 1941.

In 23 seasons of organized ball with four clubs he won 388 games and lost 180 for a percentage of .683. During his 17 years in the majors he won 300, lost 41, appeared in 616 games, pitched 3,940 innings, fanned 2,271, walked 1,187 and had an earned run average of 3.09. His best year was 1931 when he won 31 and lost 4 for the A's. He equalled the league record that year when he won 16 consecutive games. In 1928 he bagged 14 wins in a row. In 1923 he fanned 330 I. L. batsmen and his best mark in the A. L. was 214 in 1930.

He led the A. L. with low earned run average for nine years, in games won four times, in won and lost percentages five times, in strikeouts seven times, in complete games three times, in shutouts three times and made the major league all-star teams five times. He appeared in three World Series, winning four and losing two and pitched in three All-Star games. His name? Are you kidding?

Yep, he's Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, of Lonaconing. The baseball books have his date of birth as March 6, 1900. A plaque bearing his name and achievements appears in Baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y. He's often been called "Baseball's Greatest Left Hander" and his name has appeared on many major league all-time teams. The photo was taken in 1925.

Bell Is Certain Baltimore Will Get Grid Berth

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29 (AP)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League conceded today that Baltimoreans virtually had bought themselves professional football for next year, but he still refused to hint who might own and coach the team.

"It looks like Baltimore is going to sell its quota without any question," Bell was quoted after being told 12,270 season tickets have been sold.

Bell guaranteed a league franchise next year if Baltimore sold 15,000 tickets by Jan. 22.

"I am still considering three persons as owner," Bell said. He would give no clue to their identity other than that "two of them are Baltimoreans."

One Baltimorean mentioned frequently is Carroll Rosenbloom, a cloth ing manufacturer who played football at the University of Pennsylvania when Bell was the coach.

Bell said he also has contacted two men now coaching professional football who said they "are interested in coming to Baltimore."

The term "horsepower" originated from experiment carried out with strong draft horses by James Watt, who was trying to find out the rate at which a horse does its work.

As You Were

(This is the 38th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

Baseball followers will identify this fellow quickly but his record as a pitcher is so remarkable it's really worth rehashing. After breaking in with the Midland Indians he started his career in organized ball with Martinsburg of the Blue Ridge League in 1919. Some writers say he went there on a bicycle but the tall lefthander reports he never owned one.

He won three and lost three for the Blue Sox and then was sold to Jack Dunn's Baltimore Orioles. The money from this sale was reported to have been used to help build a fence around the Martinsburg park. At Baltimore he won 85 and lost 36 with five straight I. L. pennant winners (1920-1924). Dunnie sold him to the Philadelphia A's for a figure exceeding $100,000 and he toiled for Mr. Mack for nine years (1925-1933) before being traded along with Max Bishop and Rube Walberg to the Boston Red Sox for Warstler, Kline and $125,000 in 1933. He was with the Bosox eight seasons until his retirement in 1941.

In 23 seasons of organized ball with four clubs he won 388 games and lost 180 for a percentage of .683. During his 17 years in the majors he won 300, lost 41, appeared in 616 games, pitched 3,940 innings, fanned 2,271, walked 1,187 and had an earned run average of 3.09. His best year was 1931 when he won 31 and lost 4 for the A's. He equalled the league record that year when he won 16 consecutive games. In 1928 he bagged 14 wins in a row. In 1923 he fanned 330 I. L. batsmen and his best mark in the A. L. was 214 in 1930.

He led the A. L. with low earned run average for nine years, in games won four times, in won and lost percentages five times, in strikeouts seven times, in complete games three times, in shutouts three times and made the major league all-star teams five times. He appeared in three World Series, winning four and losing two and pitched in three All-Star games. His name? Are you kidding?

Yep, he's Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, of Lonaconing. The baseball books have his date of birth as March 6, 1900. A plaque bearing his name and achievements appears in Baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y. He's often been called "Baseball's Greatest Left Hander" and his name has appeared on many major league all-time teams. The photo was taken in 1925.

Mrs. Mildred Foulke, Baltimore, drove the Sagana XIII, a 266-inch hydroplane, at an average pace of 111.289 for the two-way passage, making her the first woman ever to pilot a boat at more than 100 miles an hour.

Pop Warner Award Goes To Jim Sears

PALO ALTO, Calif., Dec. 29 (AP)—Jim Sears, talented Southern California back, was named today as winner of the Glenn "Pop" Warner Award as the most valuable senior college football player on the Pacific Coast in 1952.

The selection was by ballot of 400 coast sports writers, broadcasters and coaches. It was a close race, with only a dozen votes separating Sears, Don Moomaw of UCLA, Don Heinrich of Washington, and Johnny Olszewski of California.

Plans For Regional Police School Here Feb. 4-5 Set

A regional police school will be held here February 4-5 under direction of the Maryland Police Association.

Commissioner John J. Long announced that sessions will be held both days from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at a centralized location to be selected.

Officers from as far east as Hagerstown and west to Oakland will be invited, he said. Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn is arranging to have as many local officers as possible in attendance.

Industrial firms will also be asked to send members of their police groups.

Expert instructors will conduct the school. Subjects will include court room behavior, report writing, techniques and mechanics of arrest (disarming, handcuffing), burglary investigation, drawing and charting strike duty, riots, and control of firearms.

William R. Darr Nabbed On Three Motor Vehicle Counts

A 45-year-old Rawlings lumber mill operator, convicted of manslaughter about two years ago in the traffic death of his wife, was arrested over the weekend on three motor charges following a crash in South End.

William R. "Buck" Darr drew a 90-day jail sentence January 17, 1951, for fatally injuring Mrs. Mary Catherine Darr, 40. His truck hit her on McMullen Highway.

Yesterday morning, Darr was taken before Magistrate Donald W. Mason who ordered him remanded to Allegany county jail until sentence is imposed. Charges include driving with a revoked license.

Police said the auto driven by Darr hit the side of the Virginia Avenue subway early Saturday night. He escaped injury and was taken to the city jail.

Darr's wife died in December 1950 at Allegany Hospital, five hours after she was struck by her husband's tractor-trailer. She was running across Route 220 in front of their home at the time.

Darr contended that he was enroute to a nearby store when the mishap occurred.

After Associate Judge George Henderson passed sentence in Circuit Court, Darr was permitted to serve the jail term on weekends.

Henderson emphasized Darr was under the influence of liquor when his wife was fatally hurt, and said that "in the future those convicted of drunken driving can very reasonably expect something more than a simple fine."

An 18-year-old youth, Frederick Calhoun, 131 Paca Street, was turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation yesterday in connection with the alleged theft of an automobile from Ridgeley.

Authorities indicated he may be charged with violating the Dyer Act by transporting a stolen car across state lines. Two Maryland motor charges were filed against him.

Calhoun was taken into custody Christmas Day on Pershing Street by Officer George Furstenburg. In Trial Magistrates Court yesterday morning, he was ordered held in jail for sentencing.

Larceny Suspect Is Fined, Paroled

Charged with larceny, Ivan Eugene Izzett, of Cumberland, was fined $100 and placed on probation for two years in Bedford County (Pa.) Court last week. He pleaded guilty.

Another defendant, William Edward Hillegass, RD 1, Manns Choice, was given a one-to-two-year term in Allegheny County Workhouse. He admitted burglarizing an auto and passing worthless checks at banks in Bedford.

Judge J. Colvin Wright directed him to pay a fine of $25 and court costs. Hillegass drew three concurrent jail sentences.

Forrest Lafferty, RD 1, Buffalo Mills, paid $200 and costs on a motor charge. He was placed on three years' probation.

Governor Acknowledges City's Parkway Support

Governor Theodore McKeldin has acknowledged the city's letter and resolution urging support of the proposed C&O Canal Parkway project.

The Governor, in a letter to the Mayor and Council, said he had referred the city's action to I. Alvin Pasarew, chairman of the State Planning Commission. McKeldin added he is looking forward to talking with Pasarew on the matter.

A majority report of the Planning Commission on the parkway is due after the first of the year.

Commissioner William J. Edwards was authorized to advertise for bids for a concrete foundation, fittings and pipe galley for the 75,000 gallon water tank to be placed on Wills Mountain. Purchase of the tank followed residents' protests that water pressure is low.

Also included in the order are provisions for trench excavation, laying and backfilling of a six-inch water main connection.

Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder also received authorization to advertise for bids to rid and control termites in the City Hall building.

Referred to Commissioner William V. Keegan, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum was the bid of $25 for six lots on Ridgedale Addition by Lyndon M. Gump and his wife, Ella G. Gump.

Mrs. Roeder publicly thanked all those who helped with the Christmas display at Riverside Park and participants in the dedication ceremony. She paid especial tribute to Mrs. Marguerite Findlay, member of the Park Board. In another tribute, Mrs. Roeder lauded East Side firemen for their party for youngsters and families. Firemen had prepared toys for less fortunate children.

Meter collections reported by Inspector William H. Buley were as follows: December 21 — $644.67; December 20—$616.22; an increase of $28.45.

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday was 88,500,000 gallons as compared to 89,100,000 the same period a year ago. The daily average was 12,642,000. The water level at Lake Gordon is four feet below the level of the spillway and Lake Koon six feet, ten inches below.

Payrolls for the last two weeks of the month were approved.

Plcns For Regional Police School Here Feb. 4-5 Set

A regional police school will be held here February 4-5 under direction of the Maryland Police Association.

Commissioner John J. Long announced that sessions will be held both days from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at a centralized location to be selected.

Officers from as far east as Hagerstown and west to Oakland will be invited, he said. Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn is arranging to have as many local officers as possible in attendance.

Industrial firms will also be asked to send members of their police groups.

Expert instructors will conduct the school. Subjects will include court room behavior, report writing, techniques and mechanics of arrest (disarming, handcuffing), burglary investigation, drawing and charting strike duty, riots, and control of firearms.

William R. Darr Nabbed On Three Motor Vehicle Counts

A 45-year-old Rawlings lumber mill operator, convicted of manslaughter about two years ago in the traffic death of his wife, was arrested over the weekend on three motor charges following a crash in South End.

William R. "Buck" Darr drew a 90-day jail sentence January 17, 1951, for fatally injuring Mrs. Mary Catherine Darr, 40. His truck hit her on McMullen Highway.

Yesterday morning, Darr was taken before Magistrate Donald W. Mason who ordered him remanded to Allegany county jail until sentence is imposed. Charges include driving with a revoked license.

Police said the auto driven by Darr hit the side of the Virginia Avenue subway early Saturday night. He escaped injury and was taken to the city jail.

Darr's wife died in December 1950 at Allegany Hospital, five hours after she was struck by her husband's tractor-trailer. She was running across Route 220 in front of their home at the time.

Darr contended that he was enroute to a nearby store when the mishap occurred.

After Associate Judge George Henderson passed sentence in Circuit Court, Darr was permitted to serve the jail term on weekends.

Henderson emphasized Darr was under the influence of liquor when his wife was fatally hurt, and said that "in the future those convicted of drunken driving can very reasonably expect something more than a simple fine."

An 18-year-old youth, Frederick Calhoun, 131 Paca Street, was turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation yesterday in connection with the alleged theft of an automobile from Ridgeley.

Authorities indicated he may be charged with violating the Dyer Act by transporting a stolen car across state lines. Two Maryland motor charges were filed against him.

Calhoun was taken into custody Christmas Day on Pershing Street by Officer George Furstenburg. In Trial Magistrates Court yesterday morning, he was ordered held in jail for sentencing.

Larceny Suspect Is Fined, Paroled

Charged with larceny, Ivan Eugene Izzett, of Cumberland, was fined $100 and placed on probation for two years in Bedford County (Pa.) Court last week. He pleaded guilty.

Another defendant, William Edward Hillegass, RD 1, Manns Choice, was given a one-to-two-year term in Allegheny County Workhouse. He admitted burglarizing an auto and passing worthless checks at banks in Bedford.

Judge J. Colvin Wright directed him to pay a fine of $25 and court costs. Hillegass drew three concurrent jail sentences.

Forrest Lafferty, RD 1, Buffalo Mills, paid $200 and costs on a motor charge. He was placed on three years' probation.

Governor Acknowledges City's Parkway Support

Governor Theodore McKeldin has acknowledged the city's letter and resolution urging support of the proposed C&O Canal Parkway project.

The Governor, in a letter to the Mayor and Council, said he had referred the city's action to I. Alvin Pasarew, chairman of the State Planning Commission. McKeldin added he is looking forward to talking with Pasarew on the matter.

A majority report of the Planning Commission on the parkway is due after the first of the year.

Commissioner William J. Edwards was authorized to advertise for bids for a concrete foundation, fittings and pipe galley for the 75,000 gallon water tank to be placed on Wills Mountain. Purchase of the tank followed residents' protests that water pressure is low.

Also included in the order are provisions for trench excavation, laying and backfilling of a six-inch water main connection.

Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder also received authorization to advertise for bids to rid and control termites in the City Hall building.

Referred to Commissioner William V. Keegan, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum was the bid of $25 for six lots on Ridgedale Addition by Lyndon M. Gump and his wife, Ella G. Gump.

Mrs. Roeder publicly thanked all those who helped with the Christmas display at Riverside Park and participants in the dedication ceremony. She paid especial tribute to Mrs. Marguerite Findlay, member of the Park Board. In another tribute, Mrs. Roeder lauded East Side firemen for their party for youngsters and families. Firemen had prepared toys for less fortunate children.

Meter collections reported by Inspector William H. Buley were as follows: December 21 — $644.67; December 20—$616.22; an increase of $28.45.

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday was 88,500,000 gallons as compared to 89,100,000 the same period a year ago. The daily average was 12,642,000. The water [illegible] at Lake Gordon is four feet below the level of the spillway and [illegible] Koon six feet, ten inches below.

Payrolls for the last two weeks of the month were approved.

Two West Virginians Killed On Hunting Trip

Two area West Virginians were fatally wounded Sunday in hunting mishaps believed to have resulted from the accidental discharge of their shotguns.

The dead are Donald Edward Kimble, 16, son of Guy and Tressie Emily (Shreve) Kimble, of Horseshoe Hill Road, RD 1, Keyser, and Stewart Kenneth Miller, 52, of Gormania, Grant county.

The Kimble youth left his home Sunday afternoon to hunt rabbits in the Deeter Hollow section near his home. When he failed to return home by nightfall his father started a search and found his son's body shortly after midnight. A head wound caused the death.

Miller's body was discovered about 6 p. m. Sunday by two men who were assisting in a search called by his wife, Mrs. Ruth Miller. The men, William Yost and Otis Cooper, both of Gorman, Md., told authorities they found the body after tracking Miller in a light snow which covered the ground. The body was discovered about 500 yards from his home on State Route 90.

Trooper W. Frank Bowley, of the Keyser State Police unit, who conducted an investigation in the death of young Kimble, said the mishap probably occurred when the youth slipped and dropped his 12-gauge shotgun. Mineral County (W. Va.) Coroner Madalyn Bazzle visited the scene where the body was found, but no report is expected for several days.

The youth's father told Trooper Bowley the boy was last seen between 3 and 4 p. m. Sunday as he was trying to raise a rabbit from cover. He said he started his search from that point. The Kimble boy was a junior at Fort Ashby High School.

Miller was born in Taggert, Randolph County (W. Va.), a son of Warren W. and Nora (Spangler) Miller. A lumberman, Miller was accustomed to spend a short time hunting on Sundays while his wife attended church services. When he failed to appear within a reasonable time after her return home Sunday, she became alarmed and called neighbors to conduct a search.

Yost and Cooper found the body at the bottom of a hill and, Cpl. F. H. Tribett of the Petersburg State Police detachment believes Miller's fatal stomach wound was inflicted when he used his 20-gauge shotgun to prevent himself from slipping down the hill. Evidence supporting Cpl. Tribett's claim was found when a tree on the hillside was discovered to have chipped bark and other bark was found in a screwhead in the butt of the shotgun.

Acting Coroner J. L. Boor, Petersburg, visited the scene of the mishap but no report was available yesterday.

Miller's body was taken to the McKinley Funeral Home, Elkins, for services, and interment will be in Maplewood Cemetery there.

Surviving the Kimble youth, besides his parents, are two brothers, Lindberg Kimble, Baltimore, and Kenneth Kimble, at home, and five sisters, Mrs. Carl Bowman and Mrs. Robert Alt, both of RD 1, Keyser; Mrs. George McCarty, Keyser, and Misses Shirley and Sue Ann Kimble, at home.

The body will be taken to the residence. Services will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at Mineral Baptist Church on West Virginia State Route 46, near Fort Ashby.

Injured Man Is Improved

KEYSER—James Bean, 32, who is a patient in the Grafton City Hospital, the result of a fall from a tender on a B & O train at Tunnelton last Wednesday, is reported slightly improved, although it is expected that he will be confined to the hospital for a long time. He sustained a badly injured leg, that had to be amputated, had a fractured skull and is suffering from internal injuries, the seriousness of which has not been determined because of inability to have him moved for x-rays.

The accident occurred Wednesday morning about 10:30 o'clock, while the engine was taking on coal, when the injured man became overbalanced and fell backward from the tender. His wife and four-year-old son, James, Jr., reside in McCoole.

Two West Virginians Killed On Hunting Trip

Two area West Virginians were fatally wounded Sunday in hunting mishaps believed to have resulted from the accidental discharge of their shotguns.

The dead are Donald Edward Kimble, 16, son of Guy and Tressie Emily (Shreve) Kimble, of Horseshoe Hill Road, RD 1, Keyser, and Stewart Kenneth Miller, 52, of Gormania, Grant county.

Investigations conducted by West Virginia State Police indicate the two deaths resulted from accidental discharges resulting from either slips or falls by the hunters.

The Kimble youth left his home Sunday afternoon to hunt rabbits in the Deeter Hollow section near his home. When he failed to return home by nightfall his father started a search and found his son's body shortly after midnight. A head wound caused the death.

Miller's body was discovered about 6 p. m. Sunday by two men who were assisting in a search called by his wife, Mrs. Ruth Miller. The men, William Yost and Otis Cooper, both of Gorman, Md., told authorities they found the body after tracking Miller in a light snow which covered the ground. The body was discovered about 500 yards from his home on State Route 90.

Trooper W. Frank Bowley, of the Keyser State Police unit, who conducted an investigation in the death of young Kimble, said the mishap probably occurred when the youth slipped and dropped his 12-gauge shotgun. Mineral County (W. Va.) Coroner Madalyn Bazzle visited the scene where the body was found, but no report is expected for several days.

The youth's father told Trooper Bowley the boy was last seen between 3 and 4 p. m. Sunday as he was trying to raise a rabbit from cover. He said he started his search from that point. The Kimble boy was a junior at Fort Ashby High School.

Miller was born in Taggert, Randolph County (W. Va.), a son of Warren W. and Nora (Spangler) Miller. A lumberman, Miller was accustomed to spend a short time hunting on Sundays while his wife attended church services. When he failed to appear within a reasonable time after her return home Sunday, she became alarmed and called neighbors to conduct a search.

Yost and Cooper found the body at the bottom of a hill and, Cpl. F. H. Tribett of the Petersburg State Police detachment believes Miller's fatal stomach wound was inflicted when he used his 20-gauge shotgun to prevent himself from slipping down the hill. Evidence supporting Cpl. Tribett's claim was found when a tree on the hillside was discovered to have chipped bark and other bark was found in a screwhead in the butt of the shotgun.

Acting Coroner J. L. Boor, Petersburg, visited the scene of the mishap but no report was available yesterday.

Miller's body was taken to the McKinley Funeral Home, Elkins, for services, and interment will be in Maplewood Cemetery there.

Surviving the Kimble youth, besides his parents, are two brothers, Lindberg Kimble, Baltimore, and Kenneth Kimble, at home, and five sisters, Mrs. Carl Bowman and Mrs. Robert Alt, both of RD 1, Keyser; Mrs. George McCarty, Keyser, and Misses Shirley and Sue Ann Kimble, at home.

The body will be taken to the residence. Services will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at Mineral Baptist Church on West Virginia State Route 46, near Fort Ashby.

Daily Bridge Lesson

DO NOT LEAD IT THEN

YOUR partner's suit is likely to be one of the worst possible opening leads if the declarer had bid No Trumps at his first opportunity to speak after that suit had been shown. He probably is ready for it with a double stopper or better. If you have any suit of your own which is fairly close to establishment, the declarer may not have too good protection in it. Furthermore, your partner, not having much high card strength in his own suit, may hold something of importance in yours.

	♠ Q 8 4 3 ♥ A 8 ♦ K Q 3 ♣ 7 5 4 3

(Dealer West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♦
Pass	1 ♠	2 ♥	2 NT
Pass	3 NT

West made South's job easy by leading the 5 of his partner's hearts. That assured the declarer a quick three tricks in the suit, plus six in diamonds and one in spades to give him his contract plus an extra trick.

What was the matter with West's imagination? He should have been able to tell that South was well primed for a heart lead, in addition to which North's raise of No Trumps to game indicated his delight with such a contract and the likelihood of still an additional heart stopper, as proved to be the case.

Furthermore, with so much of the heart strength marked by the bidding as being in the hands of the vulnerable opponents, West should have realized his partner's heart suit had none too many high cards in it. Consequently East must have had pretty good strength elsewhere in his hand. If among those side honors happened to be either the club K or A, a club lead by West would open a suit within one trick of being set. If West had chosen his club Q for the lead, East could have read the situation easily and would have put up the A. See what that would have done. The K would have been killed, whereupon a club return would have given West four more tricks in the suit, beating the contract before South had taken a solitary trick.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS)—Thousands, perhaps millions, of Christmas trees brightening the corners of U. S. homes are decorated with Soviet subsidized ornaments. Similar ornaments have been placed in gift packages sent to Korea by loving parents and wives who never knew they were helping to underwrite the continuation of the war for our men in that desolate theater of war.

It is too late to undo the present damage; it was too late when approximately five million dollars worth of ornaments were allowed to flood U. S. markets with "sources of origin" unmarked. But it's not too late for American housewives, who have a tighter control of the nation's purse strings than does Congress itself, to try to do better next Christmas.

American shoppers were careless enough of "source of origin" on merchandise and the containers in which imported goods were displayed to enable $148,826,982 worth of goods to seep in from behind the Iron Curtain last year. Final figures from 1952 imports are not available as yet, and are not expected to be as large as 1951. However, one type of merchandise — Christmas tree ornaments — showed an increase so substantial that it seriously threatens the entire domestic ornament industry.

It was only in the late 1930's that the manufacture of Christmas tree ornaments was begun in the United States. American know-how applied the principle of the electric light bulb machine to the task of turning out the highly perishable baubles. The domestic market was quickly captured.

The skill of European ornament craftsmen was not lost during the war years. They could no longer compete with machine made ornaments but in those parts of Europe which fell under the control of Russia the people learned that they could be put to work at slave labor rates and show a profit for the Kremlin. An indication of the scale of living to which they have been reduced can be gleaned from the fact that the trinkets are sold at such low prices in this country, after duty has been paid, that they managed to capture about half of the American market since 1947.

Radio Free Europe reports that in Captive Poland the controlled press and radio has denounced Christmas as an "old fashioned, superstitious distraction" which is "damaging to the high goals of the Communist state." But the Reds have not been above turning a neat dollar out of the "superstition."

It is high time that every American began to examine the point of origin on the goods he buys, trivial goods or not. If enough buyers refuse to purchase goods because they bear the stamp "Made in Czechoslovakia," to name one industrial bee-hive of Red activity, retailers inevitably will tell jobbers they no longer want this type of merchandise. Jobbers will discover as they did in World War II that an aroused American public will not abet them in traffiking slave labor.

The American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Catholic War Veterans and Jewish War Veterans have taken the lead in attempting to make Americans aware of source of origin markings. By law, each piece of merchandise or the container in which it is placed for sale must now show in legible type where the product was made.

Daily Bridge Lesson

DO NOT LEAD IT THEN

YOUR partner's suit is likely to be one of the worst possible opening leads if the declarer had bid No Trumps at his first opportunity to speak after that suit had been shown. He probably is ready for it with a double stopper or better. If you have any suit of your own which is fairly close to establishment, the declarer may not have too good protection in it. Furthermore, your partner, not having much high card strength in his own suit, may hold something of importance in yours.

	♠ Q 8 4 3 ♥ A 8 ♦ K Q 3 ♣ 7 5 4 3
♠ J 6 5 2 ♥ 5 4 ♦ 10 5 ♣ Q J 9 8 6	N W E S	♠ K 10 7 ♥ Q 10 7 6 2 ♦ 8 6 ♣ A 10 2
	♠ A 9 ♥ K J 9 3 ♦ A J 9 7 4 2 ♣ K

(Dealer West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♦
Pass	3 NT

West made South's job easy by leading the 5 of his partner's hearts. That assured the declarer a quick three tricks in the suit, plus six in diamonds and one in spades to give him his contract plus an extra trick.

What was the matter with West's imagination? He should have been able to tell that South was well primed for a heart lead, in addition to which North's raise of No Trumps to game indicated his delight with such a contract and the likelihood of still an additional heart stopper, as proved to be the case.

Furthermore, with so much of the heart strength marked by the bidding as being in the hands of the vulnerable opponents, West should have realized his partner's heart suit had none too many high cards in it. Consequently East must have had pretty good strength elsewhere in his hand. If among those side honors happened to be either the club K or A, a club lead by West would open a suit within one trick of being set. If West had chosen his club Q for the lead, East could have read the situation easily and would have put up the A. See what that would have done. The K would have been killed, whereupon a club return would have given West four more tricks in the suit, beating the contract before South had taken a solitary trick.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS)—Thousands, perhaps millions, of Christmas trees brightening the corners of U. S. homes are decorated with Soviet subsidized ornaments. Similar ornaments have been placed in gift packages sent to Korea by loving parents and wives who never knew they were helping to underwrite the continuation of the war for our men in that desolate theater of war.

It is too late to undo the present damage; it was too late when approximately five million dollars worth of ornaments were allowed to flood U. S. markets with "sources of origin" unmarked. But it's not too late for American housewives, who have a tighter control of the nation's purse strings than does Congress itself, to try to do better next Christmas.

American shoppers were careless enough of "source of origin" on merchandise and the containers in which imported goods were displayed to enable $148,826,982 worth of goods to seep in from behind the Iron Curtain last year. Final figures from 1952 imports are not available as yet, and are not expected to be as large as 1951. However, one type of merchandise — Christmas tree ornaments — showed an increase so substantial that it seriously threatens the entire domestic ornament industry.

It was only in the late 1930's that the manufacture of Christmas tree ornaments was begun in the United States. American know-how applied the principle of the electric light bulb machine to the task of turning out the highly perishable baubles. The domestic market was quickly captured.

The skill of European ornament craftsmen was not lost during the war years. They could no longer compete with machine made ornaments but in those parts of Europe which fell under the control of Russia the people learned that they could be put to work at slave labor rates and show a profit for the Kremlin. An indication of the scale of living to which they have been reduced can be gleaned from the fact that the trinkets are sold at such low prices in this country, after duty has been paid, that they managed to capture about half of the American market since 1947.

Radio Free Europe reports that in Captive Poland the controlled press and radio has denounced Christmas as an "old fashioned, superstitious distraction" which is "damaging to the high goals of the Communist state." But the Reds have not been above turning a neat dollar out of the "superstition."

It is high time that every American began to examine the point of origin on the goods he buys, trivial goods or not. If enough buyers refuse to purchase goods because they bear the stamp "Made in Czechoslovakia," to name one industrial bee-hive of Red activity, retailers inevitably will tell jobbers they no longer want this type of merchandise. Jobbers will discover as they did in World War II that an aroused American public will not abet them in traffiking slave labor.

The American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Catholic War Veterans and Jewish War Veterans have taken the lead in attempting to make Americans aware of source of origin markings. By law, each piece of merchandise or the container in which it is placed for sale must now show in legible type where the product was made.

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Christina Hendry, who died one year ago, Dec. 29, 1951.

Oh, mother dear, when you were here,
We had your tender care;
And none can ever take your place,
Or fill that vacant chair.
You were the sunlight of our home,
Till God took you away;
But we never will forget you
And we'll meet you in Heaven,
we pray.

Loving son & grandchildren

In loving memory of our dear Father, Charles G. Davidson, who died December 30th, 1950.

Father, your children all shall keep,
Your blessed memory while you sleep,
And when Eternal Day shall break,
Greet you with love as you awake.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our thanks to our neighbors and friends who were so kind to us during the illness and following the death of beloved brother and uncle, Edward J. Ratke. We especially wish to thank Father Hopkins and those who sent Mass Cards, and floral tributes, and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral.

Frank B. Ratke and family

We wish to thank our friends, neighbors, Sister Louise and all the Nurses of Saint John's Hall Sacred Heart Hospital for their kindness and sympathy during the sickness and following the death of our dearly beloved Husband and Father, Pascal J. Poe, also those that sent flowers and loaned cars, the pallbearers and Father Gordon for his service.

Mrs. Pascal J. Poe and Family

We wish to express our thanks to our friends, neighbors and relatives for their kind consideration and comforting words during the illness and following the death of our dear loved one, Mrs. Agnes Brant. We also want to thank those who offered their services as pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes and loaned cars for the funeral, and also Rev. B. F. Hartman for his comforting words.

Husband and Family

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Christina Hendry, who died one year ago, Dec. 29, 1951.

Oh, mother dear, when you were here,
We had your tender care;
And none can ever take your place,
Or fill that vacant chair.
You were the sunlight of our home,
Till God took you away;
But we never will forget you
And we'll meet you in Heaven,
we pray.

Loving son & grandchildren

In loving memory of our dear Father, Charles G. Davidson, who died December 30th, 1950.

Father, your children all shall keep,
Your blessed memory while you sleep,
And when Eternal Day shall break,
Greet you with love as you awake.

Sadly missed by:
THE CHILDREN

But there is lethargy and there are loopholes. Lethargy belongs to those buyers who either do not know or care if they contribute to the economic progress of the enemy. Sample loophole: If you purchase an article stamped "Made in Germany," you are not contributing to the welfare of the Bonn government. "Made in Germany" means that it was made in Eastern Germany and the money derived from its sale helps support among other things the organization, training and arming of a tremendous military force. If the German product is manufactured in any of the Allied occupation zones of that country, it is so marked and the marking is there for anyone curious enough or careful enough to find it.

The scope of this economic intrigue, which is not only damaging to our own manufactures but must reassure the Kremlin that we are a nation of genuine boobs, is brought vividly home to all of us when we realize that even our Christmas trees have been infiltrated.

But there is lethargy and there are loopholes. Lethargy belongs to those buyers who either do not know or care if they contribute to the economic progress of the enemy. Sample loophole: If you purchase an article stamped "Made in Germany," you are not contributing to the welfare of the Bonn government. "Made in Germany" means that it was made in Eastern Germany and the money derived from its sale helps support among other things the organization, training and arming of a tremendous military force. If the German product is manufactured in any of the Allied occupation zones of that country, it is so marked and the marking is there for anyone curious enough or careful enough to find it.

The scope of this economic intrigue, which is not only damaging to our own manufactures but must reassure the Kremlin that we are a nation of genuine boobs, is brought vividly home to all of us when we realize that even our Christmas trees have been infiltrated.

City Asks Resolutions On Traffic Bond Issue

Take Initial Action In $355,000 Plan

City officials yesterday asked Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, to prepare resolutions on three parts of the city's 1953 legislative program, including a $355,000 traffic improvement bond issue and referendums on the proposed Industrial Boulevard and a sewage disposal plant.

The legislative program was discussed by the Mayor and Council informally yesterday morning following the regular council meeting.

Finan To Prepare Resolutions

Finan was asked to prepare the necessary resolutions covering each of the plans as the first step toward securing the desired legislation.

Formal action on the part of the city officials will be taken when the resolutions are presented for their approval.

The proposed $355,000 traffic improvement program would include four projects.

The most urgent is the Frederick Street Improvement Project which will cost the city about $250,000 if the cost is matched by the federal government. It includes the construction of 1.27 miles of 32 foot pavement with five foot sidewalks on each side and for about 4,420 feet of storm sewer from Linden Street to Welsh Avenue.

The widening of Franklin Street, between Centre and Mechanic Streets, is the second part of the plan. It is estimated to cost about $21,000 to widen the block from 16½ to 24 feet.

The third item is the extension of George Street from Frederick to Bedford Street. The project will cost about $54,000.

Without Referendum

Widening of portions of South Mechanic and Orchard Streets is also contemplated. Cost is estimated at about $30,000.

City officials plan to ask the Allegany County Delegation to approve the above projects without a referendum, explaining that if the Frederick Street improvement plan were to be delayed until the next regular election, the city might lose the opportunity to secure federal participation in the cost.

The second resolution would call for a referendum at the next general election on the proposed Industrial Boulevard in South Cumberland.

Unwilling To Ask More

City officials are reported unwilling to ask for the project without a referendum since the bond issues asked without referendum would bring the total city debt to about five per cent of real estate assessments, which is the limit the city set in order to maintain its favorable credit rating.

The cost of the project will not be known until the City Engineering Department completes a survey of the complete route.

A resolution will also be prepared by the city attorney calling for a referendum, at the next general election, on the proposed $2,000,000 sewage disposal plant for Cumberland.

The General Assembly in 1951 authorized a referendum on a $1,500,000 bond issue to finance the project.

The Mayor and Council, however, refused to place the issue on the ballot, saying the plans were not available and costs not known.

A separate bill will be sought on the issue, since officials said there is some doubt about whether it can be voted on in 1954 since the bill specifically stated the referendum was to be on the "next general election."

Progress is being made by city officials on another phase of the legislative program, a Civil Service Bill.

Man Sought For Bad Checks Arrested Here

W. Va. Trooper's Tip Leads To Apprehension

A West Virginia State Trooper, traveling through Cumberland last night, furnished police with a tip which resulted in the apprehension of a much wanted alleged bad check artist.

Trooper R. L. Mozingo, driving along Henderson Avenue, saw a parked car which he believed to be that operated by a man wanted in five West Virginia and Virginia cities for issuing bad checks. A pick up notice had been generally broadcast on him.

Trooper Mozingo, who is stationed at Martinsburg, W. Va. went to a nearby telephone and notified Maryland State Police. Since the car was parked on a city street and to save time, State Police at LaVale substation passed the tip to city police who went into action.

As a result of this cooperation, James Woody, 29, alias Robert Richardson of Kirby, W. Va. was lodged in city jail last night.

Police said he also used the name of David L. Scott on checks.

Lt. James E. Van said Kirby was arrested at a tavern in the 200 block of Henderson Avenue, near where his car was parked. Officer Leo E. P. Law of the Detective Bureau and Patrolman Kenneth W. Morrisey assisted in the arrest.

In his possession at the time of the arrest, police noted, was a check for $42 written on the Bank of Romney, and a number of .22 long rifle shells found in the glove compartment of the car bearing Virginia license plates.

Woody was reported to have passed another check for $40 yesterday in a local supermarket.

He was wanted for forgery, police said, in Moorefield, Petersburg, Martinsburg, Romney and Winchester.

Sgt. T. W. Harrison of the West Virginia State Police at Romney was reported as coming to Cumberland to take Woody back to that state.

Boys Quizzed In Beer Theft

The State's Attorney's Office yesterday questioned five teen-age boys in connection with the theft of more than 60 cases of beer and ale from a local brewery during a five-week period.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said the five boys are to appear at the State's Attorney's Office again tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock for further interrogation and final disposition. They have been ordered to appear with their parents.

Lilya added members of the quintet have not been charged yet, but they also face a possible federal violation.

Police said thefts dating back to late November included turkeys taken from Garrett County, foodstuffs from SS. Peter and Paul parish hall and clothing from a West Side home. Authorities pointed out that at least six trips were made to a brewery to steal cases of beer and ale. Entrance in each visit was gained through an unlocked window.

Baptists Will Hold Watch Night Service

First Baptist Church will hold a Watch Night service tomorrow from 11 p. m. to 12:01 a. m. with Rev. O. Afton Linger, pastor, delivering the address.

Prior to the service at 9 p. m., the church's Training Union will hold a social hour with each of the unions providing entertainment. Refreshments will follow.

In charge of the event are Miss Orpha Boggs, Mrs. H. R. Matlick and Mrs. Carl Herpich.

Search Party Fails To Locate Missing Woman

Bowman's Addition Combed For Two Hours

Efforts of a searching party composed of State Police, Boy Scouts, and volunteer firemen proved futile yesterday afternoon as it combed the Bowman's Addition area in an attempt to find some trace of Mrs. Odessa Molinari Meister, 35, who has been missing since December 20.

The clue which led authorities to that section was a red pocketbook, identified as belonging to Mrs. Meister, and found Sunday afternoon in a gutter along a back road in the rear section of Bowman's Addition. Mrs. Annabelle Clem, who lives nearby, made the discovery.

The roadway where the purse was found is several hundred yards off Valley Road, the main thoroughfare, according to State Trooper William F. Baker, criminal investigator from LaVale Barracks who helped conduct the search.

Approximately 50 persons participated for about two hours yesterday in an effort to locate the missing housewife who resides at 104 Columbia Street. She has been missing since she left home for work at the Amcelle plant, Dec. 20.

Volunteer firemen from Corriganville, Baltimore Pike and Bowman's Addition were on hand as well as Boy Scouts of Troop No. 4, Centre Street Methodist Church, led by Herbert Lehr and Troop No. 1, St. Luke's Lutheran Church, with William Armbruster as leader.

Also at the scene from Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, was Willis V. Smith, secretary. No further clues were located in the rough terrain by the searching party according to State Police.

Assisting Trooper Baker were Trooper First Class John F. Browning and Trooper Lynwood Clark of the LaVale Barracks. Last night Baker said the party began combing the area at 4 p. m. when the Bowman's Addition fire siren was sounded. The search continued until dark, he added.

Coroner's Jury To Probe Fatal Auto Crash

Mishap Occurred At Blue Beach Bridge

A coroner's jury will meet this afternoon at Romney to probe the fatal accident Sunday at Blue Beach Bridge near Springfield in which a Green Spring serviceman was killed and three persons were injured.

The jury was slated to meet yesterday but Prosecuting Attorney Ralph W. Haines was out of town and unable to attend, necessitating a postponement. The serviceman was identified as Herbert Glaze, 21, who was scheduled to depart for Korea after spending the Christmas holidays at his home.

Driver of the vehicle, authorities noted, was Edward L. Davidson, 31, also of Green Spring. He was treated by a physician at Romney. In "fair condition" at Memorial Hospital here are two brothers, George Allen, 35 and Raymond Allen, 29, Paw Paw.

George sustained an arm fracture and chest injuries while his brother suffered a fractured leg and shock. Glaze, according to authorities, was killed when thrown through a rear window of the car. Hampshire County A. L. Russell said he was "practically decapitated."

No charges have been preferred against Davidson, police said, pending the jury's investigation.

Meanwhile the condition of Kenneth Deremer, 14-month-old-son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Deremer, Hyndman, remains about the same at Memorial Hospital where he was admitted December 23 after being scalded by hot coffee.

The child was taken to the hospital in serious condition with second and third degree burns about the body, caused when he upset a coffee urn over himself. His sister, five-year-old Judy Marie, suffered slight burns and has been released from the hospital, attaches said.

Sobeloff Sworn In As Top Judge Of High Court

Three Allegany County residents were present in Annapolis yesterday as Simon E. Sobeloff, one of Maryland's best known lawyers, was sworn in as chief judge of the Court of Appeals.

Representing this county at the ceremonies were Walter C. Capper, former chief judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit; Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris and Stanley Hamilton, member of the County Board of License Commissioners.

Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin made a brief speech before the swearing in ceremony witnessed by 300 who overflowed the executive office reception room at the State House. Ogle Marbury, chief clerk of the Court of Appeals, administered the oath as Sobeloff became the 17th man to head Maryland's high court since its formation in 1778.

McKeldin appointed Sobeloff to succeed Judge Charles Markell, who retired earlier this month at the retirement age of 70. Because he is only 58, the new chief judge will have no age worry. However, in 1954 he must stand for statewide election.

Installment Sales May Cut Farmers' 1952 Income Tax

This is the second of three articles on Farmers' 1952 Income Tax, prepared by University of Maryland Agricultural Economists. Article one discussed increased tax rates, and provisions covering the sale of the farm home.

Farmers may elect to use a special method of figuring their taxable gain from the sale of a farm. This special method is known as the "installment sales" method. This method can be used when there are initial payments which do not exceed 30 percent of the selling price. Initial payments include any down payment and all other cash or property (other than notes of the purchaser) received in the year of sale. Sales of this type are often made in cases where the son is the purchaser. This method gives you relief from paying tax on income which has not been collected, until it is collected.

A full description, including the defining of terms and an example of sale of a farm on "installment sales" method is given in the University of Maryland Extension Service Bulletin 144.

May Be Capital Assets

Farmers are allowed, under certain circumstances, to report the sale of capital assets rather than as ordinary income. In order to be treated as sales of capital assets, the animals sold must: 1—have been owned by the farmer for 12 months or more; 2—the animals must have been held for draft, breeding, or dairy purposes, and not primarily for sale in the ordinary course of the farm business.

The new method of reporting sales of such animals as capital assets began in 1951, but is retroactive for all returns back to 1948. It is also retoractive back to 1942 under certain circumstances which can be explained by your local revenue agent. In cases where retroactive years are involved the animals in question must only have been owned for 6 months or longer instead of the 12 months or longer period previously mentioned.

May Amend Returns

Farmers who reported in previous years gains from the sale of livestock as ordinary income, which could have come under the realm and capital asset sales, may file amended returns or make claims for refunds. However, it should be understood that in a review of the request for refund the entire return and the supporting evidence are subject to rechecking. It is important that records must be available to substantiate such claims.

For more information on your Farmers' 1952 Income Tax, consult your local internal revenue agent, or obtain the 28-page bulletin, "Farmers' 1952 Income Tax," from your county agent.

Corriganville Driller Brings In Record Flowing Well

A Corriganville well driller who has been in the business for 32 years reported yesterday that he has just brought in the most forcibly flowing artesian well of his long career.

Henry W. Ford and Sons began drilling the well Friday afternoon on Gladdens Run Road, about one mile north of the Gladdens Run School in Somerset County, Pa. The well was brought in with a boom Saturday afternoon as water shot out of the ground and over the surrounding countryside.

A drill clamp was placed on the end of the well casing and it was wrapped in burlap sacks to stifle the flow of water from the well.

Ford and his sons plan to go to the well site this morning to complete work on the well. When they take the clamp and burlap sacks off the end of the well casing they won't be surprised to see the clear water gush 25 to 30 feet into the air.

The well driller said that he and his sons had drilled to a depth of about 42 feet when they hit the well. The pressure of the gushing water has been so great that he has been unable to measure the depth accurately.

Ford figures that the well is yielding between 2,000 and 4,000 gallons of water every hour.

The well was drilled on the property of Lambert V. Dye of Cleveland, Ohio. A retired railroader, Dye plans to move from Cleveland to Somerset County in the spring. The property is located some 15 miles from Cumberland.

SRC Plans Study Of Belt Route

Will Confer With Federal Officials

The Maryland State Roads Commission has promised early discussions by its Traffic Division and the Bureau of Public Roads on the improvement of State Route 51 within Cumberland.

William F. Childs, SRC chief engineer, promised the action in a letter received by Mayor Roy W. Eves yesterday in response to a query made in connection with the city's plan for an Industrial Boulevard in South Cumberland.

City officials early this month asked the State Roads Commission for an opinion on the possibility of securing federal aid on the project.

That letter had pointed out that the South Cumberland route is the No. 2 project in plans for developing this city and for relieving traffic congestion on arterial streets in South Cumberland.

The city pointed out its Engineering Department was making surveys and estimates of the cost of the work which comprises a portion of Route C as recommended in the 1950 Traffic Survey conducted by the State Roads Commission.

The SRC was asked whether it has made studies regarding the relocation of Oldtown Road or raising the grade at Evitts Creek, and requested such data, if available, so the city could plan to tie the belt route into Route 51 at that point.

At present, city officials are planning to ask the County Delegation to approve the Montreal Avenue extension plan, subject to a referendum at the next general election.

Police Training Plan Inaugurated By Long

Begins Monthly On-Job Instruction

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long last night said plans have been completed for on-the-job training classes for all Police Department personnel with initial instruction to begin January 10.

Since members of the department work in three shifts, each platoon will be divided in half to attend classroom instruction while the other half polices the city during each shift. Long explained. No patrolman will be required to attend classes on his own time as all instruction will be provided during duty hours, the commissioner added.

Study City Ordinances

Initial phase of instruction will be concerned with city ordinances which the law enforcement group must be familiar with and maintain, Long stated. The instruction period will be held in the police squad room at department headquarters each month with half the platoons attending classes one day and the remaining group attending the following day. Each platoon leader will set the time of the program for his group, the commissioner noted.

Explaining that the instruction periods will take from an hour to two hours, Long said the basic outline of each phase of training would be passed from platoon leader to platoon leader so that the same type of instruction will be available to all personnel.

The commissioner also noted that instructors will be permitted to call in experts during classes to explain such technical and diversified material as criminal law, fingerprinting, photo lab work, first aid, traffic problems, discipline, courtesy, arrests, criminal investigation and others.

Long Range Program

The program is a long range plan which will be continued in an effort to acclimate each individual officer with the entirety of his duties and will begin with the morning shift Jan. 10.

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, Assistant Chief Benjamin F. Gaffney and Lt. John E. Sherry, platoon leaders of the three daily shifts, will act as instructors during the classes, Long concluded.

Vote On Water Company Post Planned Monday

Would Hire Hitchcock To Full-Time Position

A vote on a proposal to return the post of superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company to a full-time basis is slated at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

Informed sources said city officials will be asked to take action on an agreement with the Evitts Creek Water Company for the employment of George M. Hitchcock as full time superintendent of the city's water facilities.

Hired Full Time

The company has proposed that Hitchcock be hired on a full-time basis at the water plant beginning January 15, at his present annual salary of $6,500, all of which would be paid from water department funds.

For the past five years, Hitchcock has been serving as superintendent of the water firm and as city smoke abatement engineer, getting $4,000 for the work at the dam and $2,500 as smoke engineer.

The subject was discussed yesterday before the regular council meeting, but no definite action was taken.

Mayor Roy W. Eves asked council members if they were ready to vote on Hitchcock's contract and both Police Commissioner John J. Long and Street Commissioner Mrs. Lucile Roeder said they were not.

Asks Information

Mrs. Roeder pointed out she had asked for certain information, including the qualifications of Hitchcock as a water engineer. She explained she understood he was primarily an architectural engineer.

She also said she had asked for information on the specific duties of certain supervisors at Lake Gordon, where a technician has been hired temporarily to do laboratory tests which previously have been done by the State Health Department here, and of the duties of C. L. Brotemarkle, assistant superintendent at the dam.

Mrs. Roeder also commented on the $6,500 salary offered for the post in view of the fact that a home also is furnished for the superintendent.

Asks Budget Report

At this point, she asked Water Commissioner William J. Edwards for a copy of the budget for the city water department.

Commissioner Edwards replied there was no budget for the unit since it was self sustaining and is operated from water revenues and not tax funds.

Mrs. Roeder commented she did not see how a department could be operated efficiently without a budget.

When Mayor Eves asked Mrs. Roeder as to the condition of her budgets, the commissioner went to her office and returned with the several budgets included in the department.

The employment of a full time head at the water plant has the support of the Evitts Creek Water Company and is termed desirable by the Pennsylvania Department of Health, authorities asid.

Action on the smoke abatement position will be taken after a decision is reached on the Evitts Creek Water Company job is filled, informed sources said.

The Smoke Abatement budget for the fiscal year was $10,500 and included provisions for $2,500 for Hitchcock's services.

News In Brief

The January meeting of the Happy Service Club of First Methodist Church has been postponed until February 5.

The monthly card party of St. Anthony's Church, Ridgeley, will be held at 8:15 tonight in the church basement.

Termite, Starling Hazards Pose Problems For Council

Termites in City Hall and the starling hazard faced by local pedestrians posed year-end problems for the Mayor and Council yesterday.

The first problem, termites, caused little worry and was disposed of with an order authorizing Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder to advertise for bids to rid City Hall of the termites.

Termites, officials said, have been a problem in City Hall for some time, since the basement floor is about two feet below ground. Sills on the basement windows have had to be replaced on several occasions.

The current attack is on the floor of the City Registration Office.

Big flocks of starlings, which are paying their annual winter visit to this city, were the subject of an informal discussion.

The Mayor and Council discussed the nuisance posed by the starlings, which have been a problem in the downtown area for years.

The worst concentration, unfortunately, is on utility wires at the heavily traveled intersection of Baltimore and Centre Streets.

Officials admitted the birds made a mess on the streets, were a hazard to pedestrians and had caused many complaints from citizens.

The city will seek information from other communities on what can and is being done to control the problem.

Take Initial Action In $355,000 Plan

City officials yesterday asked Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, to prepare resolutions on three parts of the city's 1953 legislative program, including a $355,000 traffic improvement bond issue and referendums on the proposed Industrial Boulevard and a sewage disposal plant.

The legislative program was discussed by the Mayor and Council informally yesterday morning following the regular council meeting.

Finan To Prepare Resolutions

Finan was asked to prepare the necessary resolutions covering each of the plans as the first step toward securing the desired legislation.

Formal action on the part of the city officials will be taken when the resolutions are presented for their approval.

The proposed $355,000 traffic improvement program would include four projects.

The most urgent is the Frederick Street Improvement Project which will cost the city about $250,000 if the cost is matched by the federal government. It includes the construction of 1.27 miles of 32 foot pavement with five foot sidewalks on each side and for about 4,420 feet of storm sewer from Linden Street to Welsh Avenue.

The widening of Franklin Street, between Centre and Mechanic Streets, is the second part of the plan. It is estimated to cost about $21,000 to widen the block from 16½ to 24 feet.

The third item is the extension of George Street from Frederick to Bedford Street. The project will cost about $54,000.

Without Referendum

Widening of portions of South Mechanic and Orchard Streets is also contemplated. Cost is estimated at about $30,000.

City officials plan to ask the Allegany County Delegation to approve the above projects without a referendum, explaining that if the Frederick Street improvement plan were to be delayed until the next regular election, the city might lose the opportunity to secure federal participation in the cost.

The second resolution would call for a referendum at the next general election on the proposed Industrial Boulevard in South Cumberland.

Unwilling To Ask More

City officials are reported unwilling to ask for the project without a referendum since the bond issues asked without referendum would bring the total city debt to about five per cent of real estate assessments, which is the limit the city set in order to maintain its favorable credit rating.

The cost of the project will not be known until the City Engineering Department completes a survey of the complete route.

A resolution will also be prepared by the city attorney calling for a referendum, at the next general election, on the proposed $2,000,000 sewage disposal plant for Cumberland.

The General Assembly in 1951 authorized a referendum on a $1,500,000 bond issue to finance the project.

The Mayor and Council, however, refused to place the issue on the ballot, saying the plans were not available and costs not known.

A separate bill will be sought on the issue, since officials said there is some doubt about whether it can be voted on in 1954 since the bill specifically stated the referendum was to be on the "next general election."

Progress is being made by city officials on another phase of the legislative program, a Civil Service Bill.

Man Sought For Bad Checks Arrested Here

W. Va. Trooper's Tip Leads To Apprehension

A West Virginia State Trooper, traveling through Cumberland last night, furnished police with a tip which resulted in the apprehension of a much wanted alleged bad check artist.

Trooper R. L. Mozingo, driving along Henderson Avenue, saw a parked car which he believed to be that operated by a man wanted in five West Virginia and Virginia cities for issuing bad checks. A pick up notice had been generally broadcast on him.

Trooper Mozingo, who is stationed at Martinsburg, W. Va. went to a nearby telephone and notified Maryland State Police. Since the car was parked on a city street and to save time, State Police at LaVale substation passed the tip to city police who went into action.

As a result of this cooperation, James Woody, 29, alias Robert Richardson of Kirby, W. Va. was lodged in city jail last night.

Police said he also used the name of David L. Scott on checks.

Lt. James E. Van said Kirby was arrested at a tavern in the 200 block of Henderson Avenue, near where his car was parked. Officer Leo E. P. Law of the Detective Bureau and Patrolman Kenneth W. Morrisey assisted in the arrest.

In his possession at the time of the arrest, police noted, was a check for $42 written on the Bank of Romney, and a number of .22 long rifle shells found in the glove compartment of the car bearing Virginia license plates.

Woody was reported to have passed another check for $40 yesterday in a local supermarket.

He was wanted for forgery, police said, in Moorefield, Petersburg, Martinsburg, Romney and Winchester.

Sgt. T. W. Harrison of the West Virginia State Police at Romney was reported as coming to Cumberland to take Woody back to that state.

Boys Quizzed In Beer Theft

The State's Attorney's Office yesterday questioned five teen-age boys in connection with the theft of more than 60 cases of beer and ale from a local brewery during a five-week period.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said the five boys are to appear at the State's Attorney's Office again tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock for further interrogation and final disposition. They have been ordered to appear with their parents.

Lilya added members of the quintet have not been charged yet, but they also face a possible federal violation.

Police said thefts dating back to late November included turkeys taken from Garrett County, foodstuffs from SS. Peter and Paul parish hall and clothing from a West Side home. Authorities pointed out that at least six trips were made to a brewery to steal cases of beer and ale. Entrance in each visit was gained through an unlocked window.

Search Party Fails To Locate Missing Woman

Bowman's Addition Combed For Two Hours

Efforts of a searching party composed of State Police, Boy Scouts, and volunteer firemen proved futile yesterday afternoon as it combed the Bowman's Addition area in an attempt to find some trace of Mrs. Odessa Molinari Meister, 35, who has been missing since December 20.

The clue which led authorities to that section was a red pocketbook, identified as belonging to Mrs. Meister, and found Sunday afternoon in a gutter along a back road in the rear section of Bowman's Addition. Mrs. Annabelle Clem, who lives nearby, made the discovery.

The roadway where the purse was found is several hundred yards off Valley Road, the main thoroughfare, according to State Trooper William F. Baker, criminal investigator from LaVale Barracks who helped conduct the search.

Approximately 50 persons participated for about two hours yesterday in an effort to locate the missing housewife who resides at 104 Columbia Street. She has been missing since she left home for work at the Amcelle plant, Dec. 20.

Volunteer firemen from Corriganville, Baltimore Pike and Bowman's Addition were on hand as well as Boy Scouts of Troop No. 4, Centre Street Methodist Church, led by Herbert Lehr and Troop No. 1, St. Luke's Lutheran Church, with William Armbruster as leader.

Also at the scene from Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, was Willis V. Smith, secretary. No further clues were located in the rough terrain by the searching party according to State Police.

Assisting Trooper Baker were Trooper First Class John F. Browning and Trooper Lynwood Clark of the LaVale Barracks. Last night Baker said the party began combing the area at 4 p. m. when the Bowman's Addition fire siren was sounded. The search continued until dark, he added.

Coroner's Jury To Probe Fatal Auto Crash

Mishap Occurred At Blue Beach Bridge

A coroner's jury will meet this afternoon at Romney to probe the fatal accident Sunday at Blue Beach Bridge near Springfield in which a Green Spring serviceman was killed and three persons were injured.

The jury was slated to meet yesterday but Prosecuting Attorney Ralph W. Haines was out of town and unable to attend, necessitating a postponement. The serviceman was identified as Herbert Glaze, 21, who was scheduled to depart for Korea after spending the Christmas holidays at his home.

Driver of the vehicle, authorities noted, was Edward L. Davidson, 31, also of Green Spring. He was treated by a physician at Romney. In "fair condition" at Memorial Hospital here are two brothers, George Allen, 35 and Raymond Allen, 29, Paw Paw.

George sustained an arm fracture and chest injuries while his brother suffered a fractured leg and shock. Glaze, according to authorities, was killed when thrown through a rear window of the car. Hampshire County A. L. Russell said he was "practically decapitated."

No charges have been preferred against Davidson, police said, pending the jury's investigation.

Meanwhile the condition of Kenneth Deremer, 14-month-old-son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Deremer, Hyndman, remains about the same at Memorial Hospital where he was admitted December 23 after being scalded by hot coffee.

The child was taken to the hospital in serious condition with second and third degree burns about the body, caused when he upset a coffee urn over himself. His sister, five-year-old Judy Marie, suffered slight burns and has been released from the hospital, attaches said.

Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin made a brief speech before the swearing in ceremony witnessed by 300 who overflowed the executive office reception room at the State House. Ogle Marbury, chief clerk of the Court of Appeals, administered the oath as Sobeloff became the 17th man to head Maryland's high court since its formation in 1778.

McKeldin appointed Sobeloff to succeed Judge Charles Markell, who retired earlier this month at the retirement age of 70. Because he is only 58, the new chief judge will have no age worry. However, in 1954 he must stand for statewide election.

SRC Plans Study Of Belt Route

Will Confer With Federal Officials

The Maryland State Roads Commission has promised early discussions by its Traffic Division and the Bureau of Public Roads on the improvement of State Route 51 within Cumberland.

William F. Childs, SRC chief engineer, promised the action in a letter received by Mayor Roy W. Eves yesterday in response to a query made in connection with the city's plan for an Industrial Boulevard in South Cumberland.

City officials early this month asked the State Roads Commission for an opinion on the possibility of securing federal aid on the project.

That letter had pointed out that the South Cumberland route is the No. 2 project in plans for developing this city and for relieving traffic congestion on arterial streets in South Cumberland.

The city pointed out its Engineering Department was making surveys and estimates of the cost of the work which comprises a portion of Route C as recommended in the 1950 Traffic Survey conducted by the State Roads Commission.

The SRC was asked whether it has made studies regarding the relocation of Oldtown Road or raising the grade at Evitts Creek, and requested such data, if available, so the city could plan to tie the belt route into Route 51 at that point.

At present, city officials are planning to ask the County Delegation to approve the Montreal Avenue extension plan, subject to a referendum at the next general election.

Police Training Plan Inaugurated By Long

Begins Monthly On-Job Instruction

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long last night said plans have been completed for on-the-job training classes for all Police Department personnel with initial instruction to begin January 10.

Since members of the department work in three shifts, each platoon will be divided in half to attend classroom instruction while the other half polices the city during each shift. Long explained. No patrolman will be required to attend classes on his own time as all instruction will be provided during duty hours, the commissioner added.

Study City Ordinances

Initial phase of instruction will be concerned with city ordinances which the law enforcement group must be familiar with and maintain, Long stated. The instruction period will be held in the police squad room at department headquarters each month with half the platoons attending classes one day and the remaining group attending the following day. Each platoon leader will set the time of the program for his group, the commissioner noted.

Explaining that the instruction periods will take from an hour to two hours, Long said the basic outline of each phase of training would be passed from platoon leader to platoon leader so that the same type of instruction will be available to all personnel.

The commissioner also noted that instructors will be permitted to call in experts during classes to explain such technical and diversified material as criminal law, fingerprinting, photo lab work, first aid, traffic problems, discipline, courtesy, arrests, criminal investigation and others.

Long Range Program

The program is a long range plan which will be continued in an effort to acclimate each individual officer with the entirety of his duties and will begin with the morning shift Jan. 10.

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, Assistant Chief Benjamin F. Gaffney and Lt. John E. Sherry, platoon leaders of the three daily shifts, will act as instructors during the classes, Long concluded.

Vote On Water Company Post Planned Monday

Would Hire Hitchcock To Full-Time Position

A vote on a proposal to return the post of superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company to a full-time basis is slated at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

Informed sources said city officials will be asked to take action on an agreement with the Evitts Creek Water Company for the employment of George M. Hitchcock as full time superintendent of the city's water facilities.

Hired Full Time

The company has proposed that Hitchcock be hired on a full-time basis at the water plant beginning January 15, at his present annual salary of $6,500, all of which would be paid from water department funds.

For the past five years, Hitchcock has been serving as superintendent of the water firm and as city smoke abatement engineer, getting $4,000 for the work at the dam and $2,500 as smoke engineer.

The subject was discussed yesterday before the regular council meeting, but no definite action was taken.

Mayor Roy W. Eves asked council members if they were ready to vote on Hitchcock's contract and both Police Commissioner John J. Long and Street Commissioner Mrs. Lucile Roeder said they were not.

Asks Information

Mrs. Roeder pointed out she had asked for certain information, including the qualifications of Hitchcock as a water engineer. She explained she understood he was primarily an architectural engineer.

She also said she had asked for information on the specific duties of certain supervisors at Lake Gordon, where a technician has been hired temporarily to do laboratory tests which previously have been done by the State Health Department here, and of the duties of C. L. Brotemarkle, assistant superintendent at the dam.

Mrs. Roeder also commented on the $6,500 salary offered for the post in view of the fact that a home also is furnished for the superintendent.

Asks Budget Report

At this point, she asked Water Commissioner William J. Edwards for a copy of the budget for the city water department.

Commissioner Edwards replied there was no budget for the unit since it was self sustaining and is operated from water revenues and not tax funds.

Mrs. Roeder commented she did not see how a department could be operated efficiently without a budget.

When Mayor Eves asked Mrs. Roeder as to the condition of her budgets, the commissioner went to her office and returned with the several budgets included in the department.

The employment of a full time head at the water plant has the support of the Evitts Creek Water Company and is termed desirable by the Pennsylvania Department of Health, authorities asid.

Action on the smoke abatement position will be taken after a decision is reached on the Evitts Creek Water Company job is filled, informed sources said.

The Smoke Abatement budget for the fiscal year was $10,500 and included provisions for $2,500 for Hitchcock's services.

News In Brief

The January meeting of the Happy Service Club of First Methodist Church has been postponed until February 5.

The monthly card party of St. Anthony's Church, Ridgeley, will be held at 8:15 tonight in the church basement.

Installment Sales May Cut Farmers' 1952 Income Tax

This is the second of three articles on Farmers' 1952 Income Tax, prepared by University of Maryland Agricultural Economists. Article one discussed increased tax rates, and provisions covering the sale of the farm home.

Farmers may elect to use a special method of figuring their taxable gain from the sale of a farm. This special method is known as the "installment sales" method. This method can be used when there are initial payments which do not exceed 30 percent of the selling price. Initial payments include any down payment and all other cash or property (other than notes of the purchaser) received in the year of sale. Sales of this type are often made in cases where the son is the purchaser. This method gives you relief from paying tax on income which has not been collected, until it is collected.

A full description, including the defining of terms and an example of sale of a farm on "installment sales" method is given in the University of Maryland Extension Service Bulletin 144.

May Be Capital Assets

Farmers are allowed, under certain circumstances, to report the sale of capital assets rather than as ordinary income. In order to be treated as sales of capital assets, the animals sold must: 1—have been owned by the farmer for 12 months or more; 2—the animals must have been held for draft, breeding, or dairy purposes, and not primarily for sale in the ordinary course of the farm business.

The new method of reporting sales of such animals as capital assets began in 1951, but is retroactive for all returns back to 1948. It is also retroactive back to 1942 under certain circumstances which can be explained by your local revenue agent. In cases where retroactive years are involved the animals in question must only have been owned for 6 months or longer instead of the 12 months or longer period previously mentioned.

May Amend Returns

Farmers who reported in previous years gains from the sale of livestock as ordinary income, which could have come under the realm and capital asset sales, may file amended returns or make claims for refunds. However, it should be understood that in a review of the request for refund the entire return and the supporting evidence are subject to rechecking. It is important that records must be available to substantiate such claims.

For more information on your Farmers' 1952 Income Tax, consult your local internal revenue agent, or obtain the 28-page bulletin, "Farmers' 1952 Income Tax," from your county agent.

Corriganville Driller Brings In Record Flowing Well

A Corriganville well driller who has been in the business for 32 years reported yesterday that he has just brought in the most forcibly flowing artesian well of his long career.

Henry W. Ford and Sons began drilling the well Friday afternoon on Gladdens Run Road, about one mile north of the Gladdens Run School in Somerset County, Pa. The well was brought in with a boom Saturday afternoon as water shot out of the ground and over the surrounding countryside.

A drill clamp was placed on the end of the well casing and it was wrapped in burlap sacks to stifle the flow of water from the well.

Ford and his sons plan to go to the well site this morning to complete work on the well. When they take the clamp and burlap sacks off the end of the well casing they won't be surprised to see the clear water gush 25 to 30 feet into the air.

The well driller said that he and his sons had drilled to a depth of about 42 feet when they hit the well. The pressure of the gushing water has been so great that he has been unable to measure the depth accurately.

Ford figures that the well is yielding between 2,000 and 4,000 gallons of water every hour.

The well was drilled on the property of Lambert V. Dye of Cleveland, Ohio. A retired railroader, Dye plans to move from Cleveland to Somerset County in the spring. The property is located some 15 miles from Cumberland.

Termite, Starling Hazards Pose Problems For Council

Termites in City Hall and the starling hazard faced by local pedestrians posed year-end problems for the Mayor and Council yesterday.

The first problem, termites, caused little worry and was disposed of with an order authorizing Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder to advertise for bids to rid City Hall of the termites.

Termites, officials said, have been a problem in City Hall for some time, since the basement floor is about two feet below ground. Sills on the basement windows have had to be replaced on several occasions.

The current attack is on the floor of the City Registration Office.

Big flocks of starlings, which are paying their annual winter visit to this city, were the subject of an informal discussion.

The Mayor and Council discussed the nuisance posed by the starlings, which have been a problem in the downtown area for years.

The worst concentration, unfortunately, is on utility wires at the heavily traveled intersection of Baltimore and Centre Streets.

Officials admitted the birds made a mess on the streets, were a hazard to pedestrians and had caused many complaints from citizens.

The city will seek information from other communities on what can and is being done to control the problem.
